▼ Buitenen - विश्वास-टिष्णनी

साधु प्रयतमानेनापि बहुत्र van Buitenen-नामा पण्डितेन दोषाः कृताः, ते च यथासम्भवं मार्जिताः। यथाऽस्य श्लोकस्यानुवादाव् ईक्षेताम् -

स्वर्ग-सिद्धिं विना किं नु
नियोगस्य न सिध्यति ।
नाधिकारो न विषयो
न चान्यद्-विध्य-अपेक्षितम् ॥

०० मङ्गलादि①

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

जगज्-जन्म-स्थिति-ध्वंस-महानन्दैक-हेतवे । करामलकवद् विश्वं
पश्यते विष्णवे नमः ॥

▼ Buitenen

- Homage to Visṇu, the sole cause of the origin, subsistence and annihilation of the world, the sole cause of perfect bliss, for whom everything is as instantly evident as a myrobal in the hand.

▼ Buitenen - Notes

To Yamuna, God's omniscience consists in this unlimited percipience, so that, as he will argue below (§ 109), the validity of Pancarātra does not rest only on Scripture, but also on Perception.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

येऽमी केचन मत्सरात् स-वयसो दुर्-मान-सारा नरा
गम्भीरां गुणशालिनीम् अपि गिरं निन्दन्ति, निन्दन्तु ते । सारासार-विचार-कौशल-दशा-पारे परे इवस्थिताः
सन्तस् सन्त्य् अनसूयवो इपि बहवः शंसन्ति ये मद्-गिरम् ॥

▼ Buitenen

- Those of my contemporaries who are 'profoundly dishonest and will condemn a penetrating treatise, however great its merits, because they are envious, (may condemn it.) There are many others, who have an excellent judgment of what is essential and what is not- honest students who do not cavil; and they will praise my work

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

अभिनिवेश-वशी-कृत-चेतसां
बहु-विदाम् अपि सम्भवति भ्रमः ।
तद् इह भागवतं गत-मत्सरा
मतम् इदं विमृशन्तु विपश्चितः ॥(5)

▼ Buitenen

3. Even erudite scholars may err when their critical acumen is dominated by partisan views; yet, let the sagacious without envy study the Bhāgavata doctrine as I shall present it here.

०१ पूर्व-पक्षः①

०१ प्रामाण्यम्②

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

इह केचिद्

यतस्-ततोऽवगत--कतिपय-कुतर्क-कल्क-विस्फूर्जित-विजित-मनसस्
त्रयी-मार्ग-संरक्षण-व्याजेन निज-विमर्श-कौशलातिशयम् उपदर्शयन्तः
परम-पुरुष-विरचित-निरतिशय-निश्रेयस-गोचर-पञ्चरात्र-तन्त्र-प्रामाण्ये विप्रतिपद्यन्ते ।(5)

▼ Buitenen

- There are certain people whose minds are confused by the noise of multitudes of sophisms and falsehoods which are borrowed from anyone that comes and claiming superiority for their own studies and learning, and pretending to protect the Way of the Veda,' they refuse to accept the authority of Pañcaratra Tantra which, being composed by the Supreme Person Himself, leads to unparalleled beatitude.

▼ Buitenen - Notes

In the purva paksa the principal opponents introduced are what one may already call smārta brahmins, and among them especially the orthodox followers of Mimāmsa. Vedanta opposition will be discussed.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

वदन्ति च ।

▼ Buitenen

And they contend:

सापेक्षता③

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

द्वेधा खलु प्रमाणत्वं वचसाम् अवसीयते ।
एकम् मानान्तरापेक्षम्
अनपेक्षम् अथेतरत् ॥

▼ Buitenen

It has been decided that Verbal Testimony is a means of knowledge in two ways: dependent testimony which depends on other authority, and independent testimony.

▼ Buitenen - Notes

shabda, and its synonyms, have been translated variously as Verbal Testimony, Verbal Evidence in general, or Scripture in particular, depending on the context.

पौरुषेयता④

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

तत्रापि ।

▼ Buitenen

These two kinds are thus distinguished:

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

न तावत् पुरुषाधीन-रचनं वचनं क्वचित् । आसीदति प्रमाणत्वम्
अनपेक्षत्व-लक्षणम् ॥(4)

▼ Buitenen

No verbal assertion can be a means of valid knowledge if it has been formulated by a person; for a verbal assertion to be authoritative, it must by definition be independent.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

पौरुषेयं हि वचः प्रमाणान्तर-प्रतिपन्न-वस्तुपस्थापनायोपादीयमानं
वक्तुस् तद्-अर्थ-सिद्धिम् अनुरुध्यमानम् एव प्रमाण-भावम् अनुभवति ।

▼ Buitenen

That is to say: verbal evidence which originates from a person carries authority only then when it is used to corroborate a fact which has already been truly established by other means of knowledge, and which enables the speaker to take this fact for granted.

▼ Buitenen - Notes

prāmāna has generally been rendered with "means of knowledge," sometimes with "criterion."

०२ प्रत्यक्षादिभिर् आगमोक्तार्थसिद्धिः ②

साधारण-प्रत्यक्षम् ③

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

न च पञ्चरात्र-तन्त्र-प्रतिपाद्यमान-विलक्षण-दीक्षा-पूर्वक-भगवद्-आराधनाभिलिप्त-स्वर्गापवर्गादि--साध्य-साधन-संबन्धं प्रत्यक्षादीन्य् आवेदयितुं क्षमन्ते ।

▼ Buitenen

Now, Perception and the other means of knowledge which involve Perception, cannot produce the knowledge that the Pañcaratra Tantra does indeed set forth that the desired heaven, release and other supernatural ends can be attained by means of such ritual acts as Consecration and such devotional acts as worship of the Bhagavan etc., for this relation of means and ends is not of the order of Perception.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

न हि प्रत्यक्षेण दीक्षाऽराधनादीनि निरीक्षमाणास् तेषां निश्रेयस-साधनतां प्रतिपद्यामहे ।

▼ Buitenen

For if we consider Consecration, worship etc. merely with the aid of Perception, we cannot say that they are means to realize the summum bonum.

नार्वाचीन-गोचरम् फलादि③

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

न चार्वाचीनाः केचिद् अतिमानुष-शक्तयो
ऽमीषम् (दीक्षादीनाम्) अभिलषित-साधनताम् अध्यक्षितवन्त
इति प्रमाणम् अस्ति,
यतस् तेषाम् अपि चक्षुरादीन्द्रियं दृश्यमानम् इन्द्रिय-स्वभावं नातिक्रमितुम् उत्सहते ।

▼ Buitenen

Not only, therefore, is Perception of an ordinary kind unavailing, but there is also no way to know that there have been recently certain persons of superhuman sensibility who would have had perceptual evidence that such acts really are means of attaining the desired ends;
for the sense-organs of such persons, too, cannot surpass the boundaries of sensitiveness as we know it commonly.

भगवत्-साक्षिकत्वम्? ③

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

ननु च -

प्रकृष्टमाणं प्रत्यक्षं दृष्टम् आश्रय-भेदतः ।
अतस् तद्-आश्रये क्वापि ध्रुवं परिनिर्णयति ॥

▼ Buitenen

5. An objection may be raised here:

However, perception of a superior kind is possible, depending on its percipient.

Perception, therefore, may become perfect if the percipient is perfect.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

सर्व हि सातिशयं निरतिशय-दशाम् अनुभवद् दृष्टं
वियतीव परिमाणं, (4)
सातिशयं च काकोलूक-गृध्रादिषु प्रत्यक्षम् ईक्षितम्
इति तद् अपि तथा भवितुम् अर्हति ।

▼ Buitenen

[[3]] That is to say:

a finite thing may be found to become infinite; for instance, extent becomes infinite in space, which is infinitely extended.

Similarly, we find that finite Perception is considerably widened in air-borne creatures, like crows, owls, vultures etc., so that Perception might conceivably become infinite in some being.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

इयं च ज्ञानस्य परा काषा
या सर्वगोचरता।
अधिक-विषयतयैव हि जगति ज्ञानानि परस्-परम् अतिशेरते ।

▼ Buitenen

This indeed is the uppermost limit of knowledge where it encompasses every knowable thing; for we know from experience that knowledges exceed one another as their contents exceed one another.

▼ Buitenen - Notes

jagati or toke??: "in the world of experience, in common experience."

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

इत्थम् ऐश्वर्य-वैराग्य-सामर्थ्यादि-गुणा अपि । निरस्तातिशयाः पुंसि क्वचित् सन्तीति सूरयः ॥

▼ Buitenen

That is why the wise can say that there is Someone in Whom such finite qualities as supremacy, dispassionateness, power etc. subsist in an infinite and unequalled condition.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

अतो यस्यैतद् अ-खिल-भुवनावलम्बि--भाव-भेद--साक्षात्-कारि-प्रत्यक्षं स तत्-समीक्षित-दीक्षाऽराधनादि-धर्म-भावो भगवान्
एवं व्याचष्टेति किम् अनुपपत्रम्

इति ।

▼ Buitenen

Consequently, this Person whose immediate perception encompasses the entire range of things that are present in the world is hereby explained to be the Bhagavan who has immediate perceptual knowledge that Consecration, worship and so forth are dharma.
So what remains unproved? (is improper).

भगवन्-निरतिशय-प्रत्यक्षत्व-तिरस्कारः④

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

तन् न प्रत्यक्ष-विज्ञान-
प्रकर्षः कल्पितोऽपि वः । स्व-गोचरम् अतिक्रम्य
नान्यद् आस्कन्दितुं क्षमः ॥

▼ Buitenen

6. This objection is thus refuted:

The supreme perceptual knowledge which you assume is just a fancy.

Perceptual knowledge can never go beyond its own sphere and trespass on another.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

तथा हि -

रूप-रूपि-तद्-एकार्थ-समवायिषु चाक्षुषः । प्रकर्षो भवितुं युक्तो
दृश्यमान-प्रकर्षवत् (भगवांस् तु न दृश्यमानः)॥

▼ Buitenen

For instance:

A superior kind of visual perception,
as well as a superior perceptible object, must necessarily occur in loci where inherent relations of one kind, as between colour and coloured, obtain in one object.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

एवम्,

इन्द्रियान्तर-विज्ञानं
विश्वं गोचरयेन् न तु । कथं प्रत्यक्ष-विज्ञानं
विश्वं बोधयितुं क्षमम् ॥

▼ Buitenen

[[4]]

No knowledge that is received through one of the senses can encompass all that is knowable through all senses.

So how can perceptual knowledge by itself make all things known,
i.e. also things known only through other means of ... knowledge?

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

| ननु तत् (इन्द्रियम्) कूप्त-सामर्थ्यं विद्यमानोपलभ्नने ।

▼ Buitenen

7. The objector resumes:

However, the sensitivity which we attribute to Perception is directed toward the perceiving of what exists at present.

सातिशयस्य निरतिशयाप्राप्तिः⑤

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

अ-सति हि स्व-भावानुबन्धिनि विद्यमानोपलभ्ननत्वे
(प्रत्यक्षस्य) प्रत्यक्षतैव परावर्तते।
न ह्य अ-जात-मति-वृत्तं (=??) वा उगमयद् अनुमानादि
प्रत्यक्ष-पक्ष-निक्षेपं, तेन अशेष-विषयिता-लक्षण-प्रत्यक्ष-प्रकर्षः स्व-भाव-नियम-निमूलितोदय

इति न हृदयम् अधिरोहति ।

▼ Buitenen

Of course, if Perception did not have this function of perceiving what exists at present as its natural function, it would cease to be Perception at all.

Therefore, it is not reasonable to say that a superior kind of Perception, defined as encompassing all objects, is a priori impossible because it is limited to being Perception!

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

इदम् अपि सातिशयेन निरतिशयम् अनुमिमानः
पृष्ठो व्याचष्टां -

सातिशय एव किन् नु तां दशाम् अनुभवति
यतः परं न संभवति महिमा -

इत्य् अभिनिविशसे
बाल इव स्थविर-भावम् ।

▼ Buitenen

8. The objection is refuted:

If from finite Perception you conclude to infinite Perception, then I ask you to explain:

can a finite quantity ever attain to such expansion that it cannot be further expanded?

You insist, as it were, on full maturity in a little boy!
even as a boy, after attaining the full growth, cannot grow physically further?"

▼ Buitenen - Notes

Punctuate after iti which closes the question introduced in prsto vyācastām;

abhi-ni-vis "to stick to a partisan view (in the teeth of contrary evidence)."

I take bala iva as sandhi for bāle iva, the meaning being that the objector takes the view that something limited (the boy) is really unlimited (mature adult).

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

अथैकस्मिन् सातिशये
केनाप्य् अन्येन निरतिशयेन भवितव्यम् इति
आहोस्वित् समान-जातीयेनान्येन निरतिशय-दशाम् अधिरूढेन भवितव्यम् इति ।

▼ Buitenen

There are two possibilities:
either the infinite exists in the finite, or the finite gradually becomes infinite.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

न तावद् अग्रिमः कल्पः कल्पते ऽनुपलभ्यतः ।
न हि दृष्टं शरावादि
व्योमेव प्राप्तवैभवम् ॥

▼ Buitenen

The former cannot stand, for there is no Perception to support it:
we have never seen a bowl or a similar finite object which had the same expansion as space.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

यदि च तद् (परिमित-वस्तु) एव सतिशयम् असंभावनीय-पर-प्रकर्षं परिनितिष्ठेत्, हन्तः! तर्ह्य एकैकेन घट-मणिकादिना ब्रह्माण्डोदर-विवरम् आपूरितम्
इति तत्-प्रतिहतयेतर-भाव-भङ्ग-प्रसङ्गः

▼ Buitenen

[[5]] And suppose a finite quantity could assume inconceivable infinitude:
why, then any single jar or pitcher could fill up the entire space within the Egg of Brahma, so that all other things would be pushed out and perish accordingly!

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

व्योमैव लब्ध-साध्यत्वान्
मध्यमः सिद्धू-साधनः ।
कल्पान्तरेऽपि दुर्-वारं
प्राग्-उदीरित-दूषणम् ॥

▼ Buitenen

If you take space itself as the subject, you merely prove the proved.

In the alternative
you cannot avoid the illogicality we have pointed out:

▼ Buitenen - Notes

siddhasadhana, one of the defects of an argumentation by which proof is sought of that which is already proved or established.

Space (akāta) is, by definition, unlimited and cannot illustrate the thesis that something finite can be infinite.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

▼ Buitenen

as a matter of fact, never before has anybody seen a finite pillar which was pervaded by an infinite pillar
Consequently, there remains the defect of mutual exclusion.

▼ Buitenen - Notes

vibhu in the sense of "omnipresent, infinite."

व्योम-निदर्शनं नोचितम्⑤

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

यद् अपि वियति परिमाणम् इह निर्दर्शितं
तद् अपि विमर्शनीयम् एव -
परिमाणं हि नाम देशावच्छेदः, इयत्ता-परितोभाव-वेष्टनम् इति यावत् ।

▼ Buitenen

Let us also consider your illustration, namely that in space we have an example of a finite extent becoming infinite.

Extent is by definition a limited extension of space, a relative quantity, something that can be entirely circumscribed.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

न च नभसि तद् अस्तीति
कथम् इव तद् इह निर्दर्शनतया निर्दिश्यते ।

▼ Buitenen

Extent in this definition does not subsist in space as such,
so how can you adduce it as an example?

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

यदि च नभसि तद् अनुमन्वीत तद् अपि तर्हि सम्भाव्यमान-पर-प्रकर्षम्
इति पुनर् अपि साध्य-विकलता ।

▼ Buitenen

Besides, if one were to infer extent in space, one would simultaneously infer the possibility that space might be surpassed in extent by another quantity.
And so the illustration again falls short of the thesis.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

न च

अतिशयितेन प्रत्यक्षेण

▼ Buitenen

Nor is there any evidence for the thesis that a superior perception reveals that Consecration, worship etc.

०३ नानुमानम्②

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

नाभिग्रेत-साध्य-साधन-सम्बन्धे प्रत्यक्षं प्रमाणं, नतरां तन्-मूलतया पञ्च-रात्र-स्मृतिः प्रमाणम् ।

▼ Buitenen

To sum up:
For all these reasons
it would appear to us that the supposition that some, otherwise unperceived, supreme spiritual being exists with a superior sensibility is very weak;

and this being so,
we conclude that Perception offers no authority for the postulated relation of means to ends; and since the authority of Pañcaratra is based upon the Perception of this supposed relation, its authority is entirely non-existent.

▼ Buitenen - Notes

Relation of means to ends - namely, the Pañcaratra postulation that such tantric ceremonies as consecration (ditsa), etc, are means leading to the summum bonum.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

न च करण-पथ-दूर-वर्तिनि प्रस्तुत-वस्तुन्य्

न ह्य् अ-दृष्ट-चर-वह्नयस् तद्-अविना-भावितया धूमम् अनुसंदधति ।(5)

▼ Buitenen

9. Not only is there no Perception, but there cannot possibly be an Inference to support the thesis in question, for it is wholly suprasensible:
and Inference, of course, can only take place after an invariable concomitance has been observed by means of Perception.
If no fires have ever been observed before, they cannot prove that smoke is invariably concomitant with them."

▼ Buitenen - Notes

In the standard inference:
the mountain has fire, because it has smoke,
as in the case of the kitchen.

वेदादौ न विधि:③

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

▼ Buitenen

10. Nor do we find scriptural evidence which sets forth that the performance of all the rites which are established in the Satvata doctrine is mandatory; such evidence would have proved that the Pañcaratra Tradition, being based upon this mandate, carried authority.

▼ Buitenen - Notes

Yamuna throughout treats Satvata and Bhāgavata as synonymous.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

गोचरः - सम्बन्धावधारण-विरहात्।

▼ Buitenen

Nor is it possible, in the absence of explicit revelation, to infer such evidence from Scripture.
For just as the relation of means to certain ends which are their fruits, e.g., heaven, as Pañcarātra maintains Consecration, worship etc. to be,

does not allow of being inferred because no such relation can be (determined) verified by Perception,

न मूलागमानुमानम्③

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

एवं तन्-मूलागमोऽपि तत एव नानुमातुं शक्यः ।

▼ Buitenen

just so, no scriptural authority to furnish the basis of such a relation can be inferred from Scripture.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

न चागमेनापि प्रस्तुत-स्मरण-मूल-भूतागमावगमः सम्भवति।
स हि द्वेधा पौरुषेयापौरुषेय-भेदात् ।

▼ Buitenen

Nor is any verbal testimony capable of providing valid knowledge that Scripture is the basis of the Tradition concerned - Verbal testimony is of two kinds, originating from a person or not originating from a person.

▼ Buitenen - Notes

pauruṣēya and apauruseya; the latter has in the sequel been rendered with "preterpersonal." Person here does not mean only "human person" but "any being endowed with personal features, including God."

"Eternal Scripture" (āgama) is preter-personal scripture, since any verbal statement originating from a person is cotemporal with that person, and the purvapaksin does not admit the existence of an eternal personal deity.

▼ Buitenen

For even today, we find philosophers who pretend to be scriptural and yet expound an interpretation which is wholly unscriptural.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

किं वा यथा-रुचि रचयतां प्ररोचनाय तथा वचनम्?

इति शडकामहे ।

▼ Buitenen

[[7]]

So we have our doubts whether the claim made by the authors of the Pañcaratra texts that their own compositions are founded in the Veda is really the result of an honest conviction that such is indeed the case, or nothing but the self-glorification of authors who write as their fancy takes them!

न श्रुति-सिद्धः④

▼ Buitenen

This argumentation by itself suffices to disprove the contended authority of Pañcarātra, for there is no eternal Scripture to support the claim.

▼ Buitenen

Nor can Analogy prove that Scripture is its basis, for this criterion cannot be properly applied;
for how could the proof we need,
which cannot be found by the other means of knowledge, be within the scope of the mere knowledge of similitude?

नार्थपत्तेः④

▼ Buitenen

Nor can it be argued that, since the Tradition cannot be proved by other means,
Implication proves that Scripture is its basis.

The argument is as follows, circumstantial Implication must prove the tradition, as it cannot be proved otherwise.

▼ Buitenen - Notes

Implication - namely, the relation of being a means to a certain end.
artha patti, throughout translated "circumstantial-implication".
It is a kind of inference by which is established something that must be established, yet is not established by another means of knowledge; for example:
"Devadatta, who is well-fed, does not eat by day;"

since he cannot be well-fed without eating at all,
it is deduced, by circumstantial implication, that he eats by night.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

▼ Buitenen

the authors of the Pañcaratra, clearly have this tradition that Consecration, worship, etc. are dharma and this tradition is comparable to the tradition of Manu and others that certain non-Vedic rites, as the astaka etc., are dharma;

▼ Buitenen - Notes

KMS 1.3.2 api od kartrsamanyāt pramāṇam anumānam syat - "smṛti performing its mandates," astaka is the name of the 8th day after Full Moon in the winter and on which an oblation is performed for the deceased (Manu 4.119;

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

However, this argument would only prove its point if there were any authority for the assumption that cognitions are invariably true.

But when certain notions which are produced by the false cognitions of people whose judgement is clouded by hatred, prejudice and obstinacy, cause such "traditions" to be written in accordance with these false cognitions, could these traditions possibly be true?

11. Here an objection may be raised:

However, the same arguments may be advanced against the authority of the traditions of Manu etc. The observation of the aṣṭaka rite does not produce any perceptual knowledge that this rite is indeed a means to realize the postulated end.

12. This objection is refuted: ¶ The author of the Sutras, by making the Sutra:

"Tradition is also valid, because it has the same agent as Scripture", has clearly indicated that in his opinion no essential difference exists between Scriptural and Traditional validity.

Accordingly, we find that those who are qualified for the three Vedas perform equally for purposes of higher benefits both the ritual acts which are enjoined by Scripture (e.g., agnihōtra, pūrṇaderśamāsa, ivolistoma,etc.)

and the ritual acts enjoined by Tradition (e.g., aṣṭakā, ācamana, sandhya worship, etc.), because they have been instructed in both varieties of acts by their fathers or preceptors.

▼ Buitenen - Notes

The morning and evening oblations, the New and Full Moon oblations, and the soma sacrifice, examples respectively of nitya (daily recurring), naimittika (occasional) and kamya (desiderative) rites.

sandhya worship = the crepuscular observances.

▼ Buitenen

The firmness with which so highly qualified exemplary persons have adopted these traditional rites as incumbent upon the three higher estates goes to show that the knowledge that rites of this kind, astaka etc., obviously found to exist, are mandatory ultimately derives from Scripture itself.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः:

▼ Buitenen

On the other hand, we find that those who observe the scriptural rites of agnihotra etc.

do not observe the Tantric customs in the same manner as they observe such traditional customs as acamana investiture with the sacred thread etc.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

▼ Buitenen

It follows that the validity which we attribute to different Traditions "because", as the Sutra says, "they have the same agent as Scripture", cannot well apply to heterodox Traditions as the Pañcaratra; for exemplary exponents of the three estates do not accept the doctrines of Traditions of this kind.

13. OBJECTION:

Nevertheless, the fact that Bhāgavata Brahmins, who wear the hair-tuft, the sacred thread etc. prescribed in Scripture, perform daily the rites of Pañcarātra should then justify the presumption that these rites likewise ultimately derive from the Veda.
On what grounds, then, are we to assume that this same Pañcarātra Tradition really has its origins in error, deceit and the like,
the very negation of valid authority?.

who are hated by the three estates, are exemplary and hence authoritative?!

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

We do not regard Brahmins as a distinct species, different from the species man, with specific characteristics which mere sensory perception permits us to recognize as present in some specific bodies and absent in others.

▼ Buitenen

Hair-tuft, sacred thread etc. which are prescribed for Brahmins and the other two estates, do not make a man a Brahmin.

Nor do they demonstrate that a man is a Brahmin, for we see them worn illegally by blackguards, outcastes and the like.

[[11]]

Therefore, the sole criterion by which we can tell whether a man is indeed a Brahmin is acceptance of undisputed expressions by older persons, which give us irrefutable proof.

15. OBJECTION:

The people do not use the word Brahmin' to refer to Bhāgavatas.
The reference is only difference as this much Brahmins and this much Bhāgavatas.
Be that as it may, still, the appellations Satvata, Bhāgavata etc. are also used to name Brahmins, by some sort of transference of properties, just as the word parivrajaka is used to designate a Brahmin.

The grammarians have the rule that it is improper to use a certain word in its etymological sense if it can also be taken in a customary sense which is more common, e.g., rathakāra.

▼ Buitenen - Notes

Respectively yoga, whereby the component parts of the word are given their own meaning; and rūḍhi, the total meaning of a word that has become conventional and does not necessarily correspond to the meanings of its [[125]]component parts.

Rathakara means by yoga "chariot-maker, cartwright." by rūḍhi a caste which is not at all characterized by this profession

how could the word *rathakara give up its etymological meaning of "chariotmaker" to become the name of a particular caste, even to the extent of cancelling all connotations which we have learnt?

adhyayanasiddhabuddhyangato??abkangenāpi.
Such a "connotation" is, for example, that the rathakara in the literal sense of cartwright is disqualified for Vedic ritual, because a cartwright is a śūdra;
on this point see infra.

Besides, their own texts relate that the instruction in all their dharmas presupposes the abandoning of the Way of the Veda;

▼ Buitenen

But how can we presume that a certain text can teach that a certain object, which is known from the four Vedas, is man's supreme goal in life if he rejects at the outset the very authority of the Vedas as sources of knowledge about the means which lead to bliss?

On the contrary,
we find that Manu and other authors of Traditions declare that their works which expound as their teaching the means of attaining all kinds of desirable ends derive solely from Scripture:

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

वेदोऽखिलो धर्ममूलं

"The Veda in its entirety is the basis of the Law, as well as of the traditions and customs of those who are [[15]]

Further, the assertion that those who have already been consecrated by the sacraments of Investiture etc.
and are thereby qualified for all the Vedic rituals, agnihotra etc., must yet undergo another sacrament, called Consecration (namely, dīkṣā), in order to be qualified for the worship of the Bhagavan, demonstrates that the system is non-Vedic;

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

वैदिकत्वे हि तैर् एव संस्कारैर् भगवद्-आराधनादाव् अप्य् अधिक्रियेन् ।

▼ Buitenen

for if it were Vedic, they would be qualified for Tantric ritual by the regular sacraments.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

तद् अप्य् अवैद्यकत्वे लिङ्गम् - अन्यथा हीदम् अपि तद्-अन्यतमत्वेन स्मर्येत ।

▼ Buitenen

Again, another indication of its non-Vedic character is the fact that the system is not included among the fourteen sources of knowledge, which all orthodox people recognize as giving authoritative information on the Law.

If it were authoritative,

then it would have been recognized as such by tradition;

▼ Buitenen - Notes

fourteen sources of knowledge - namely, the four Vedas, six Vedāngas, the Purāṇas, Mimansā, Nyāya and Dharmaśāstra.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

न च स्मर्यते,
तद् अवसीयते - "अ-वैदिकम् एवेदं पञ्च-रात्र-स्मरणम्" इति ।

▼ Buitenen

but as it is not so recognized, this proves that the Pañcarātra tradition is non-Vedic.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

बाह्य-समय-निरासावसरे इत्य तन्त्रस्य निरासः ।
"उत्प्रत्य-असंभवात्" इति ।

▼ Buitenen

For this reason the venerable Badarāyaṇa, when he has occasion to refute the heterodox doctrines of Kanāda, Akṣapada, the Buddha etc. as inimical to the Way of the Veda, also refutes the Pancarātra in his Sutra (BrS. 2.2.42.):
"Because of the impossibility of origin.

तथा त्रयी-बाह्य-परिग्रहेण ।

▼ Buitenen

Therefore, as the Vedic experts regard the Pañcaratra doctrine as non-Vedic since it is not included among the Vedic systems and because of other reasons which will be advanced in the sequel, it cannot be compared with the Tradition of Manu etc.

▼ Buitenen

In view of all this it is our opinion that such infrequent good rites--e.g., the worship of the Bhagavān - which are described by the Pañcaratricas

(who teach a good many others, mostly black arts of exciting hatred, haunting a person out of his occupation, envoutement etc.)

are merely added to deceive people about their real attentions and do not deserve our faith or consideration: they are like milk that is put in a dog's bladder !

If you please, by all means assume that the Vedas constitute the cause

But is there any reason why we should have to depend exclusively on the Veda

as the basis of the Pañcarātra tradition too?

The same direct knowledge which is the very foundation of the authority of the Vedas themselves is also the foundation of the authority of the Pañcarātra doctrine;

the authority of the latter is not based upon the relation of supporting authority and supported authority which characterizes typical smarta injunctions,

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

For we perceive that words, from their very nature, depend for their composition on some entity that is different from themselves.

How else could they exist at all?

If it is objected that the significance of the Book called Veda just consists in this that it does in fact exist as Word though nobody has composed it,

then we reply;

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

यज् ज्वलनम् अन्तरेणानुच्छिन्न-सन्तानो गग्न-तलम् अधिरोहतीति

▼ Buitenen

why, if this were true, then the significance of smoke on a mountain consists in this that it whirls irrepressibly sky-high without fire!
It is utterly out of the question.

▼ Buitenen - Notes

The argument is thus:

The Veda is of personal origin, because it is language;
language is invariably found to originate from persons.
The Naiyayika compares the Mimasaka's view in the terms of this argument

with the standard inference:
the mountain has fire, because it has smoke.

20. OBJECTION. But since the applicability' of the dharma cannot be shown by any of the means of knowledge, how can a book on it be composed?

REPLY. Don't argue like that: for the Bhagavan who, of course, has an immediate intuition of dharma and adharma through the knowledge which is natural to Him has had this Book called Veda composed out of compassion for the world.

▼ Buitenen - Notes

avatara "descent, emergence." The meaning is as follows: Dharma is by definition that action which leads to a certain end by suprasensible law. Since the process (the Incans-end?? relation) is suprasensible, there can be no other authority for it than Scriptural authority.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

किम् अस्ति धर्माधर्म-गोचरम् अपि प्रत्यक्षम्?

▼ Buitenen

21. OBJECTION. But does this intuition or perception also encompass dharma and adharma?

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

बाढं कथम् अन्यथा तनु-भुवनादि-कार्यम् उपजनयति?

▼ Buitenen

REPLY. Certainly. How else would the Bhagavān be able to give rise to such effects as body, world etc.?

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

स हि तत्र कर्ता भवति
यो यस्योपादानम् उपकरणज् च साक्षात्-कर्तुं प्रभवति।

▼ Buitenen

For the maker of such effects must be one who is capable of perceiving their material and instrumental causes.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

धर्माधर्मौ च जगद्-उपकरणम्
इति मीमांसकानाम् अपि सम्मतमेव ।

▼ Buitenen

Now, dharma and adharma are the instrumental causes of the world;
this is also the consensus of the Mimāmsakas.

Consequently we must postulate a certain person who has this perceptual knowledge; and that person must also be the one who created the Veda at the beginning.

▼ Buitenen - Notes

This envisages the world as the sum total of the fruits (phala) brought about by observance or non-observance of dharma, which is thus instrumental to world creation.

▼ Buitenen

[[18]]

The entities in question, earth etc., are effects, because they have a complex construction, like a king's palace (cf.
Udayana, Kusumanjali 4.1.).

Similarly, from the fact that they are made up of parts we conclude that they are subject to destruction.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

Entities that can be destroyed are destroyed by someone who just as we can destroy clay vessels etc.

when we know by what means to destroy them.

▼ Buitenen

In the case of entities that are shattered, for instance, by a falling tree,
that is without perceptible intelligent agency,
the cause of their destruction remains dubious:
but because of this very dubiety there can also be not positive certainty that the cause of their destruction is entirely occasional.

▼ Buitenen

It being thus established that earth etc. are indeed effects, on the grounds adduced above, it follows that the Bhagavan has knowledge of dharma and adharma which are the instrumental causes of origination and annihilation.

▼ Buitenen - Notes

Since they are products, they have been produced by a person (God) who knew the means by which to produce them (dharma and adharma).

[[19]]

23. Let it not be argued that there is no intermediate production of effects like body, world etc.

between acts that bring about the desires of the person who undertakes them,

▼ Buitenen - Notes

This is the Mimāṃsā view which holds that the dharma and adharma as instruments in creation are always the dharma and adharma of a particular intelligent being whose body is itself the product of dharma and adharma and can therefore never, however intelligent he may be, control them.

The Mimimsaka admits that the universe, being made up of parts, is subject to origination and destruction, but never at one time, since all entities presuppose former acts that have brought them about.

The law of dharma and adharma necessarily operates eternally.

No agency is possible which can intervene in this eternal operation from act to act, by either beginning or ending the universe.

On this cf. Prakaraṇapañcikā, p. 137 ff. for the Prabhakara view, and Slokavārttika, Sambandhākṣepapariparihāra 47-116 for the Bhitta view.

for these acts are unable to produce anything unless they are used as an instrument by a spiritual being,
since they are non-spiritual themselves, like an adze:

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

▼ Buitenen

And we are not able to create through the instrumentality of apurva factors:

for before the actual fruition of the ritual act we cannot know their instrumentality,

▼ Buitenen - Notes

apūrva lit. "that which is unprecedented, not known before, se. by other means of knowledge" in Mimāmsā it describes especially that suprasensible power inherent in the act which makes it produce its result.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

उक्तं हि उपादानोपकरण-साक्षात्-कारिण एव

▼ Buitenen

and it has been said that only a person who has actual knowledge of the material and instrumental causes can be a maker with respect to these causes.

▼ Buitenen - Notes

The argument is that one cannot know that the act will indeed produce an effect until this effect has materialized; thus the act's power- apūrva- cannot be known beforehand as the instrument of effectuation.(5)

By the Naiyayika's definition only one who knows what instruments are effective in production can actually produce.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

न च कर्म-जन्यापूर्व-साक्षात्-कार-क्षमः क्षेत्र-ज्ञः कश्चित् प्रज्ञायते प्रतिज्ञायते वा,

And there is no embodied soul which is known, or claimed, to be capable of having the required actual knowledge of the apurva that is to arise from the act.

Therefore we must admit a Person of absolute omnipotence who is able to take in at a glance the entire Universe with dharma and adharma of all embodied souls, their experiencing of karmic results etc.,

24. If this is true, then on what authority is such a creator of the Vedas known to exist?
He is not directly perceived.

▼ Buitenen - Notes

Yamuna concurs in the Mimāmsaka's refutation of the Naiyayika's views, to the extent that he too rejects that the existence of God can be proved by reason; but he will counter the Mimāmsaka assertion that God cannot be proved at all, that in fact there is neither room nor purpose for a God in the universe.

For Yamuna, God has all the characteristics He has for the Naiyayika, but he proves them from Scripture, not reason.(5)

Moreover, in that case it would be impossible to establish the authority of the Vedas themselves; for if dharma-the Law-is not independent of other means of knowledge, there is no exclusive authority of the Vedas.

▼ Buitenen - Notes

That which makes the Veda authoritative, i.e., a means of valid knowledge, is just this that it communicates knowledge of apurva facts, e.g., that a soma sacrifice is a means of attaining heaven, i.e., generally matters pertaining to dharma.

but merely, as now, subject to varying degrees of increase and decrease which are adventitious.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः:

To say that the Mimāmsakas accept origination and annihilation in this sense is to prove the proved.

▼ Buitenen - Notes

The Mimimsaka admits that the universe, being made up of parts, is subject to origination and destruction, but never at one time, since all entities presuppose former acts that have brought them about.

In our opinion, too,
these intelligent agents bring about various results by means of sacrifices and other acts, in order to enjoy these results themselves;
and the assumption that they are indeed, as is proved for both of us, instrumental therein is quite correct, for we can have direct knowledge of these acts, sacrifices, donations and the like.

However, the special power described with terms like apurva can never be open to perception.

How then can we have use for a supervising God?

▼ Buitenen - Notes

Since the apūrva power is suprasensible, it can never be perceived, and the assumption of a God who 'supervises' and controls this power because he perceives it is absurd.

26. Certainly, it is not true that an agent, for instance a potter, when he wishes to produce a certain product- pots- must first have direct knowledge of the power of their material cause- clay- and instrumental cause- stick- to produce these products before he can actually undertake their production.

Else people who are unaware of the power of the requisite causes would never be able to employ these causes in order to produce the results they want.

In the case under discussion the persons concerned do indeed know which causes are required to bring about the results they want, for they know these causes, such as sacrifices etc.,

through the knowledge they have obtained from eternal Scripture. Thus, aided by these causes, they render manifest such products as earth etc.

A man can still be an agent in the action of knowing without perceiving in his own mind the material and instrumental causes that go into the making of this action of knowing.

Why, then, contend that the causes must be known first?

27. The contention that the entire Universe is subject to annihilation because it has parts is incorrect. Such a conclusion is [[23]] cancelled by stronger perceptual evidence against it.

For the knowledge that does arise in the world of here and now is plainly this:

'Here is the meru; here is the sun; here is the earth.'

▼ Buitenen - Notes

read na labhyate .avirodhe" pi; the meaning is this: when a certain fact (the eternity of pots) cannot be proved by a ground (recollection)

because this ground contains a contradiction

(it is recollected that pots having existed cease to exist), this does not prove that the same ground (recollection) cannot prove the eternity of earth, mountains, etc., when there is no contradiction contained in it (nobody has recollection of a vanishing mountain).

The other inference that has been given to prove that the world is subject to origination and annihilation, namely on the ground of motion when there is mass, is likewise incorrect; for this ground, too, is cancelled by the greater cogency of recognition. Consequently, inference cannot provide positive proof that the world is subject to origination and annihilation.

28. Further, you contend that there is a God, on the ground that the world is a product; but this ground precludes a specially qualified producer. For a product generally implies on the part of its producer a number of properties which are natural to him and therefore indispensable for the precise knowledge of the concomitance between him and his product - Properties like being in possession of a body, having something left to desire,

being deprived of omnipotence and omniscience, etc.

▼ Buitenen

How, then, can the fact that the world is a product convey to us the knowledge that the producer proposed for it possesses the postulated properties, of being bodiless, eternally satisfied, omniscient etc., properties, that is, which are the opposite of what would naturally follow?

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

▼ Buitenen

The production of a product requires the activation of the body, which requires on the producer's part an effort whose inherent cause is his relation with a body and is impossible of any but just such a producer. It follows that under no condition bodiless person can be an agent.

▼ Buitenen

Or if, in order to remove this fault from the argument, it is assumed that the producer indeed possesses a body,
then the question arises,
Is that body itself subject to origination or not?
If it be subject to origination,
there is infinite regress.
If it be eternal, then your contention that whatever has parts must come to an end is not universally true.

The solution of others, namely that God's special properties can be demonstrated by an ad-hoc conclusion, does not hold good either.

▼ Buitenen - Notes

adhikaranasiddhanta is a conclusion which, as soon as one thing is established (e.g., that there is a world creator), establishes another topic discussed (e.g., omniscience).
On this question, cf. Tarkabhāṣā 43.

29. OBJECTION. But if even a well-considered invariable concomitance cannot demonstrate that the cause of the earth etc. is an intelligent being, then all logical process of deduction is done with.

that it must also convey that there is a producer capable of creating the entire universe.

REPLY. We do not say that your deduction fails to demonstrate that there is such a producer, but that it also demonstrates without discrimination as many properties in this producer as at the moment of grasping the concomitance, are known to

In a case where the term which we seek to establish through deduction can also be known through another means of knowledge,

In the present instance, however, we are seeking to demonstrate God whose agency falls completely outside the scope of other means of knowledge; in his case therefore all the properties that participate in an invariable concomitance elicited through positive and negative consideration are indiscriminately established by the deduction,

A similarly occasional relationship between producer and product occurs, for instance, with grass that has grown just outside a house-garden.

We cannot be positive that this grass has sprung from a person's action.

In this instance, too, the assumption that a person, beyond the ken of our senses, has in fact been instrumental to the creation etc. of the world must remain entirely conjectural,

30. Another question to be considered is from what point in space, at what point in time,
and to what purpose
a person who is satisfied in all eternity would produce the universe.
Every agent, e.g., a potter, produces a product by means of certain instruments, while occupying a certain space at a certain time

Is He in creating the creatures prompted by His compassion?
But why, then, does He not create them happy?
If you reply, because God takes karman into account,
then you deny his complete independence.
Besides, if their karman provides sufficient causes for these creatures' variety, why assume God at all?

If it consists in this that the Vedas are composed of eternal words, the same holds true of the Pañcarātra Tantra.

It is the contention of Mimamsa that words and their capacity of conveying meaning are eternal.

The difference lies herein that in the case of the Pañcaratra the sequence is created by an independent person, whereas in the case of the Veda, a dependent person invariably wishes to repeat the exact sequence which had been laid down before him by students who preceded him.

Nor do statements concerning a fact lack authority because of the consideration that since either a proving or disproving factor may unexpectedly turn up there remains the possibility that this fact is thus repeated or reversed; for the same may equally well happen to a statement concerning, not a fact, but a karya.

▼ Buitenen - Notes

The validity of shabda lies in its communicating contents that cannot be known through other means of knowledge.

What I translate as 'facts' are more literally "established [[129]] entities," established, that is, by other means of knowledge than shabda.

A scriptural statement of the kind "grass is green" is not strictly valid in the sense that, in order to know that grass is green, we need a scriptural statement to that effect.

Another proving factor, c.g., the means of knowledge Perception, may turn up conceivably and thus make the scriptural statement superfluous; or we may find that grass is not invariably green, but changes its colour, which would reverse the scriptural statement.

Scriptural validity, i.e., Scripture's being a means of knowledge, is to the Prabhakara Mimimsaka, its being the sole means of knowing a particular thing.

To the Prabhakara this validity is ideal in the case of injunctions concerning actions which, suprasensibly, lead to a certain desired end.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

▼ Buitenen

A kārya, too, may be known from other means of knowledge, for it must be admitted that ordinary karyas, like 'fetch firewood' are also known through other means of knowledge, as in the case of the cooking of the odana.

▼ Buitenen - Notes

(The injunction concerning the odana oblation includes an injunction concerning the preparation of the odana and the fetching of firewood for the cooking. Since experience shows that for a cooking fire one needs firewood, this karya is not strictly known on scriptural authority.)

for the Bhagavan

Moreover, the theory is that since another means of knowledge can apply to a fact, or, why should other means of knowledge which themselves are liable to [[30]] various deficiencies entail the negation of a notion that arises from eternal Scripture untouched by all defects inherent in persons, merely because it is deduced that its validity is cancelled by a prior means of knowledge?

This is absurd.

▼ Buitenen - Notes

This objection ignores the priorities among pramanas, or means of knowledge; for the Prabhakara, Perception, etc. are prior to, take precedence of, Scripture in case of perceptible, etc. contents.

Generally Perception is prior to Inference.
To Yamuna, therefore, no priority of Perception to Scripture is given, which is expected since in his view Scripture may also be an account of (God's) Perception, as in the case of Pancaratra.

Thus, therefore, the imperfections that necessarily follow from the induction, e.g. absence of omniscience", possession of a body etc., find no room in the Bhagavan whose supernal manifestation of miraculous knowledge, supremacy and so forth is known from hundreds of shrutis,

▼ Buitenen - Notes

This sums up the conclusion of the refutations of both the Naiayika's and Mimamsaka's views:
the defects consequent upon the Nyaya proofs of God are avoided on the basis of scriptural examination, since Scripture can indeed validly pronounce on God.

Therefore, when a man has observed that in an exchange between two adult persons a certain inherently related action of one of them takes place immediately upon his hearing a sentence uttered by the other, he concludes with certainty that the denoting power of the sentence as inferred by means of circumstantial-implication terminates completely in the karya that has been conveyed by that sentence.

▼ Buitenen - Notes

"Denotation, denoting power, denotativeness" in the following Prabhakara discussions have to be understood as the power of verbal statements to provide unprecedented and non-superfluous knowledge concerning their contents.

In the Prabhakara view, a verbal statement by itself is denotative only in injunctive forms, while substantive statements have denotation either through contextual connection with injunctive statements, or (but this is not strictly "true" denotation) through repetition of otherwise knowable facts.

This view, which has obviously been developed for scriptural statements in the first place, is thereupon extended to ordinary language as well, and is thus expressed in the following theory about learning language which is here understood.

A child learns what certain sentences 'mean'

by observing the action which his elders take upon hearing these sentences,

When he knows no language meaning (vyutpatti), he may acquire knowledge by first hearing one adult tell another to "get the cow," and subsequently observing that the other is getting the cow:

by associating the two events he knows that an order to get the cow was the content of the first adult's statement "get the cow."

A remark without consequent action (e.g., "It is hot today,") cannot convey any such knowledge to one who does not know language.

The process of the child knowing the sentence meaning is here described as arthapatti "reasoning by circumstantial implication;" since there is no other ground for the second man's getting the cow, it must have been the first man's statement.

The very awareness of karya is known to relate to one's own karya;
so the onlooker, observing the same process in the present case, realizes that the one person's action has been caused by the other person's variously differentiated behaviour.

"Surely this person has been made aware by the other of this karya that he proceed to his action immediately upon become

This leads the observer to the conclusion that if therefore the verbal statement is truly denotative in so far as it serves to convey a karya whose specific motivation conforms to the entire statement, then whatever bits of meaning come to mind as a result of the addition or omission of words are denoted by these words only in strict accordance to this kārya, 71 which thus constitutes the primarily known principal element of the statement.

▼ Buitenen - Notes

That is to say that the denotativeness of the words composing the statement is dependent upon the injunctive denotation of the statement as a whole.

In such a statement the imperative and optative verbal terminations, which unvaryingly give rise to a knowledge of karya, convey by themselves the body of the karya, whereas the indicative etc. terminations are subject to a contextual relation with the karya

by describing consequent matters which required by the karya, e.g.
a person's qualification to accomplish it etc.

▼ Buitenen - Notes

The linādi verbal terminations of Sanskrit to which in English correspond verbs compounded with auxiliaries like "should, must, to be to, ought to."

[[131]]

For example, a sentence:

"He desires to go to heaven," which has the verb in the indicative,

followed by a statement

"he should sacrifice with a soma sacrifice," where the verb is injunctive, is truly denotative in spite of its indicative form,

since it is obviously subordinated to the injunctive sentence, to which it describes the performer's qualification:

only one who desires to go to heaven has title to, is qualified for, the performance of a soma sacrifice.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

▼ Buitenen

37. Take for example the statement that a son has been born to the person spoken to, a purely substantive statement;

the aggregate of words which convey nothing more than this bare fact that a son has been born, is not definitely proved to possess the power [[32]] of denoting the postulated birth of the son by means of such resultant effects as cheerful looks or joyfully bristling hairs on the part of the father.

For, it is impossible to establish definitely that the occurrence of a cause for various joys in future, past and present is really due to the denotative power of the statement.

▼ Buitenen - Notes

This is an example like "it is hot today;" the young father's happy countenance is not considered an action,

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

एतेन ("स्वर्गकामः सोमेन यजते"→) व्युत्पन्नेतर-पद-समभिव्याहृत--वर्तमान-निर्देशोऽपि

▼ Buitenen

Therefore, also in the case when we have a verb in the present indicative collocated with words that have their proper signification (in that they refer to things that presuppose no other means of knowledge),
it must be assumed that in it we have a substitute with a positive (i.e. injunctive) denotation of words without actually having explicit reference to a kārya.

▼ Buitenen - Notes

E.g., the sentence "he who desires to go to heaven offers the soma sacrifice," is an injunctive statement in indicative form.

38. A person knows that a certain word has a certain denotation, when it is known what is the denotation, of the other words with which it is collocated.

▼ Buitenen - Notes

This is the Prabhakara view of the denotativeness of single words, summarized in the formula anvitābhidhāna, which is short for kāryānvitābhidhana "denotation of words syntactically connected in an injunctive sentence,"

It is proved that words have the power of denoting things only in so far as they are contextually connected with a karya; consequently, their validity concerning an established fact is based on this that they give rise to the notion of karya.

▼ Buitenen

It is contended that this denotation of karya is only occasional in words, but this contention is incorrect;
the ground for words to be denotative is that they deal with a karya, so that the contention suffers of the vice of being unproved.

The cognitions of contextual relations which arise immediately upon hearing a profane statement are said to derive, not from Verbal Testimony, but from Inference.

Thus it is right that these cognitions do not terminate in karyas.

▼ Buitenen

E.g., a statement "there are fruits on the river bank" does not by itself, self-sufficiently, create in the hearer the knowledge that there are fruits on the river bank; the means of knowledge here really is inference, since the hearer must infer that the speaker knows what he is talking about, that he knows that fruit means "fruit", river bank 'river bank,' etc.

As long as we do not assume that a statement is denotative only when it bears on a karya, we cannot assume that a verb in the present indicative contains an injunction. (5)

उपनिषद्-वाक्यावगतिः③

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

एवज् चोपनिषदाम् अपि

▼ Buitenen

40. In the same manner the meaning of the upaniṣads must also be interpreted as being subordinate to such injunctions as "One must know the soul, meditate on it, etc."
which are expressed in different passages;
this meaning, then, is that one must know the omniscient soul which is beatitude, i.e. an injunction.

▼ Buitenen - Notes

This is again the Prabhakara view. The Bhatta view is somewhat different;
according to the latter the upanisads are arthavadas (subsidiary substantive statements laudatory of elements of injunctions) to the eternality of the performer's personality (atman). (5) which eternality is presupposed by the efficacy of the injunction:

e.g., the injunction "he who desires heaven must offer with the soma sacrifice"
supposes the immortality of the performer.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

न च तावता स्वरूपम् अपि सिध्यतीत्य् अध्यवसेयम् - अ-सत्य् एव रूपे तादृशि
तथा विधानोपपत्तेः ।(5)

▼ Buitenen

That the soul is the object of an injunction does not by itself however prove that the soul exists as an established fact;
for there can also be an injunction that a certain thing be such while actually it is not so;

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

यथैतद् अ-पितर्य् एव "पितरञ् जानीयाद्" इति
तथा चानुद्गीथ ओङ्कार उद्गीथ-विधानम् इति ।

▼ Buitenen

for example the injunction, "Know your father in someone who is not your father," or "Know that the[[34]] syllable OM, which is not the udgitha, is the udgitha." (Ch Up. 1.5.1. [[132]])

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

यानि पुनर् आत्म-सत्यत्व-नित्यत्व-वादीनि वाक्यानि

+ आमुष्मिक-फल-भोगोचित-चेतन-कर्तृ-प्रतिपादन-पराणि (5)

▼ Buitenen

All statements that set forth the reality and the eternity of the soul only serve to convey that there is a spiritual agent, who is required in order to experience the otherworldly fruits that are mentioned in ritual injunctions where the time of fruition is not specified.

▼ Buitenen - Notes

In this the Prabhakara concurs with the Bhatta. Injunctions without time of fruition specified are not guaranteed to bring about the desired effect during the present lifetime of the performer.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः:

अतो न किञ्चिद् अपि वचो भूते (\leftarrow सिद्ध) उर्थं प्रमाणम् ।

▼ Buitenen

Thus, by denying that the arthavādas, too, can serve to convey knowledge of facts like Rudra's weeping, it is shown that they merely serve to give praise in contextual connection with an injunction, which may be comparatively remote.

I read ata avarthavādānām.

Is this Tantra not superior?
Wherefore, then, are the qualities of immaculate knowledge, supremacy etc. of the Bhagavan not currently attributed also to the Destroyer of the Three Cities in the texts of Revelation?

Therefore it is absurd to hold the equality of the Tantras promulgated by both.

Or, since He is the God who is the cause of the origination, protection and destruction of the universe and for whom the entire Vedanta furnishes evidence to the exclusion of anyone else, how could He promulgate a doctrine that is outside the pale of the Veda?

45. OBJECTION.

Nevertheless, a fair number of śrutis are found which ascribe omniscience and omnipotence to lord Pasupati as well:

"He who is allknowing, omniscient;" (Mund Up. 1.1.9.)

"The supreme great sovereign of sovereigns." (Svet Up. 6.7.)

▼ नरसिंहः

▼ Buitenen

REPLY. By secondary denotation

these two words "omniscient" and "sovereign" apply not only to the one who actually is omniscient and sovereign, but also to others, not excepting God Siva, who are as it were all-knowing and supreme.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः:

("यस् सर्व-ज्ञः सर्व-वित्" →)

अतः सर्वज्ञ-शब्दोऽयं

▼ Buitenen

Besides, if in the above quotation "ya sarvajnah sarvavit" the word sarvajia were indeed used to describe the omniscient one, there would be tautology of sarvavit.

Consequently, the word sarvajia refers only to Mahadeva;

▼ नरसिंहः:

The above argument, says the Mīmāmsaka, is favourable to the Pāśupatas since the text " yassarvajñah sarvavit " (Mundaka- I. 1. 9 ) cannot be properly explained in favour of the Pañcarātrins.

"If the term 'sarvajña' be etymologically taken as referring to Viṣṇu, what about the term sarvavit' ?"

he asks. This term too has to be explained as all-knower', which lands the Pancaratrīn in the defect of redundancy of explanation

Therefore, the Pasupata method of explanation is in sooth, proper-the term sarvajña' refers to Śiva conventionally, while the term
'sarvavit' does so, through etymology.

Therefore, since the Pasupata Tantra has been promulgated by this Pasupati,

46. Further, granted that the Lord Vasudeva is the Person known in the upaniṣads,

§ The Vaikhānosāgamas call the Vaikhānasa and the Pañcarātra systems "saumya" and "agneya" respectively. Cf. Kasyapajñānakāṇḍa, p. 171- vaikhanasam saumyam; agneyam pañcarātram. See also Vimānārcanākalpa, paṭala 77, p. 467-vaiśṇavam dvividham, vaikhānasam pañcarātramiti;

vaikhānasam vaidikam,
vaidikairarcitam aihi kāmuṣmikaphalapradam;
pañcarātramagneyam avaidikam āmuṣmikaphalapradam;
saumyam sarvatra sampūjyam.

Cf. also Bhagavata XI. 27. 7, 49-evam kriyāyoga-pathaiḥ

puman vaidikatāntrikaiḥ |

matto vindatyabhīpsitam ||

It may be noted that such a division is found even among the Saivāgamas. Thus, the Vayu Samhita of the Sivapurāṇa (uttarabhāga XXIV. 177-178) says-

śivagamopī dvividhaḥ
śrauto 'śrautaśca samsmr̥lah | śrutiśāramayah śrautah
svatantra itarassmr̥taḥ |
(Quoted in Linga- dhāraṇucandrikā, p. 290).

Also see Saivasiddhānta p. 43- 6.

Agamas are of two kinds- Śrauta and Asrauta. The Śrautagamas are dependent upon the Vedas and are full of their essence; not so the Asrauta. The former Agamas are accepted but not the latter. The asrauta-agamas have been declared by the Lord in order to delude some people. These Agamas are Vāma, Pasupata, Lakula, Bhairava, etc. "

49. Furthermore, that a doctrine destitute of all logic and embracing the view that the soul knows birth, which is rejected by Revelation and Tradition, should be Truth is a highly ludicrous contention.

Thus we find the śruti,

Nonetheless, from the emphasis which in the statement "only sat was here" (ChUp.6.2.1.) is laid on the uniqueness of sat, it follows that there were no souls before the time of creation.

The reply to this is that here the emphasis on sat's uniqueness that were about to be created by sat.

Were the soul excluded by this statement of sat's solitariness, then the soul's origin would have been described in the sequel, just as the creation of ether is described.

Here the word bhuta denotes the jiva, the individual soul; for thus we find the word used in the passage bhrāmayañ sarvabhūtāni,

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

▼ Buitenen

The verb jianti "they live" in the text can only apply to the souls, the expression tena jayante "by whom they are born" evidently refers to these same souls.

▼ Buitenen - Notes

Taitt Up. 3.1.1. The whole sentence includes tena jivanti, on which the present exegesis of bhuta is based.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

▼ Buitenen

[[41]] REFUTATION. This is not right.

The word bhuta commonly deonly the elements ether, wind, fire, water and earth.

If the word is used for something else, it is used metaphorically. Of these elements, ether etc. which are primarily understood by the word bhuta, it is stated that they are variously modified and that they live.

▼ Buitenen - Notes

namely, that they are born (jātāri) and die (prayanti).

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

प्रथमम् अधिगता ये खादयो भूत-शब्दात्

यदि च भवति जीवे भूत-शब्दस् तदानीम् अपि वदति तदीयञ् जन्म देहानुबन्धि ॥

▼ Buitenen

The verb "they live" describes a condition of being analogous to living.

And if the word bhuta be used in the sense of individual soul, then too the statement declares that the soul is born only in the sense that its entrance into a body is a birth.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

There are śrutis to this effect, like "For the soul, unborn, alone" (Svet Up. 4.5.) and we also have other Śrutis which declare that the soul is unborn. Similarly, the word of the Lord:

"Know that both matter and spirit are without beginning;" (Bh G. 13.19.)

52. To sum up. For the reasons set forth above we maintain that the exposure of this Tantra's incompatibility with Revelation, Tradition, Epic and Purana as well as with the conclusions of our logical demonstration, and the inacceptability of this Tantra to all exemplary persons go to show that the Pañcaratra texts must have been composed by someone who pretended to teach a path that would lead to heaven and salvation, but actually wished to deceive the world.

[[44]]

If it is defined by the fact that the Tantra does not produce knowledge, then this definition militates against Perception;
for the knowledge which arises in a student, who is able to comprehend the relation between word and meaning, concerning the meaning of the sentences of Pañcaratra Sastra he hears is perceptually evident.

Nor is the predicate, sc. "nonauthoritativeness," defined by dubiety, since then we have the same conflict with Perception; for the statement, "One must worship the four-armed Supreme Person in the centre of the lotus," does not occasion a doubtful cognition:
"Must one worship Him thus or not?"

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

Nor, in the third place, is the predicate, defined by reversion, since there is no non-apprehension of what should be there, and since, the presumption of future reversion militates against Perception and would put an end to all operations.

This point shall be discussed in detail later on.

▼ Buitenen - Notes

this "non-apprehension of what should be there (yogānupalambha) is the criterion by which we know the absence of a thing. Here it is the absence of truth in Pañcarātra that needs be proved by yoganupalambha, if the objector's contention that Pañcarātra is invalid-through-reversion be correct.

▼ En - विश्लेषः

for proving it's invalidity, you want (your) inference's validity accepted.
But where we infer it's validity,
you want it's invalidity (to counter us).

▼ Buitenen - Notes

I have difficulty in understanding the argument unless I assume an illogicality. By stating as his ground since in agama we have its meaning exactly conveyed as it is the objector not only agrees with the preceding argumentation that on inferential grounds Pañcaratra is not invalid, but even goes so far as accepting that it is valid in other words, confuse non-invalidity with validity.

Then, because of this validity (svarthasya tathātvāvabodhanāt), there arises a conflict with a deviating statement of the Veda which has its own validity; since only one can be true, it follows that when Pancarātra is true by inference, it is untrue by Veda.

But I don't see how the objector can reasonably infer the validity of Pañcarātra, since its meaning or content is admittedly suprasensible. Yamuna himself has not argued that Inference proves the validity, but that Inference cannot disprove the correctness of the thesis. [[134]]

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः:

अनैकान्तिकश्च मन्वादिवाक्यैः ।

▼ Buitenen

Also, we then have an occasional application to the statements of Manu, which also are language and different from the Veda,

अ-वेद-मूलत्वान् न④

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः:

अथैतद्-दोष-हानाय
वेद-बाह्यत्व-शब्दतः ।
अवेद-मूलतां मन्द
मन्यसे किन् नु तार्किक? ॥

▼ Buitenen

If then, my slow-witted opponent, in order to remove this defect from your ground you claim that being outside the Veda means "not deriving from the Veda," then what do you, logician, think of it?

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

तेनायम् अर्थः -
"शब्दत्वे सत्यं अ-वेद-मूलत्वाद्" इति, ततो वेदैर् अनैकान्त्यम्

▼ Buitenen

Well, by this definition of the ground we get meaning,

"something, namely in case there is question of language-statements, is non-Vedic, because it does not derive from the Veda."

But then there is an occasional application to the Veda itself, which does not derive from the Veda!

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

अथवा अ-वेदत्वे सति शब्दत्वे सति अ-वेद-मूलत्वाद् इति हेतुः,

▼ Buitenen

When the ground is redefined as

"because it does not derive from the Veda, in case of a language-statement but not a Vedic statement,"

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

तथापि ।

सन्ति नद्यास् तटे
वृक्षा इत्य-आद्याप्तोपदेशनैः ।
अ-वेद-मूलैर् दुर्वारम्
अनैकान्त्यं प्रसज्यते ॥

▼ Buitenen

then again there would inevitably be an occasional application to statements of reliable persons which do not derive from the Veda and yet are valid, like "There are trees on the river-bank."

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

अथ

| अवेदत्वे सति, शब्दत्वे सति, कार्य-विषयत्वे सति, अ-वेद-मूलत्वं हेतुः,
अत्रापि "अजीर्ण मन्दम् अश्रीयाद्" इत्यादौ व्यभिचारिता ।

▼ Buitenen

If the reason is further corrected into:

"because it does not derive from the Veda, namely, in case of a language-statement -but not a Vedic statement- and this statement concerns an action to be taken," then still we have a vicious applicability to such precepts as "One must eat little when one has indigestion."

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

अथ

| उक्त-विशेषण-विशिष्टत्वे धर्माधर्म-विषयत्वेऽपि सत्य अ-वेदमूलत्वाद् इति हेतुः,
ततो भागासिद्धो हेतुः; न हि पञ्चात्रशास्त्रं कृत्स्नं धर्माधर्म-विषयम् - ब्रह्मविषयाणामेव वचसां बाहुल्यात् ।
(अतः पक्षोऽसिद्धो भवति)

▼ Buitenen

[[46]]

Again, if the ground is then reformulated as

"because it does not derive from the Veda, in case of a statement specified by all the above specifications and also concerned with dharma and adharma," then this ground is partly impertinent, because Pancarātra Sastra does not deal with dharma and adharma exclusively, since the great majority of its Statements concern Brahman.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

अथ "प्रमाणान्तरायोग्यार्थत्वे सती" ति विशेषः

("अवेदत्वे सति, शब्दत्वे सति, अ-वेद-मूलत्वं हतुः, " इत्यत्र)

तत्च-चैतद् अनन्तरम् एव वक्ष्यामः।

▼ Buitenen

If then, the specification is added

"....when it deals with objects that are outside the scope of other pramāṇas," then again the ground does not fully apply, for hundreds of śrutis demonstrate that the Perception of God encompasses all things related to dharma and adharma.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

Other conceivable inferences will be presented; and refuted, later on.

We conclude therefore, that the proposition "Pañcarātra is authoritative," is not in conflict with Inference.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

▼ Buitenen

58. Nor is it in conflict with Scripture, for hundreds of scriptural statements, like idam mahopaniṣadam, will be adduced which set forth that Pañcarātra is authoritative.

न स्व-व्याधातादि③

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

स्व-वचन(→विरोधः)-स्वाभ्युपगम(→विरोधः)-सर्व-लोक-प्रसिद्धि-विरोधाश्
शब्द-विरोध-प्रकारास् त्व अनाशङ्कनीया एव,

▼ Buitenen

There are no grounds to suspect in our proposition anyone of the three kinds of contradiction of language-statements; namely, contradiction within the terms of the statement; contradiction with one's own thesis; or contradiction with universally accepted facts.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

तथा हि न तावत् स्ववचनविरोधः,
स हि त्रेधा - उक्तिमात्रविरोधः, धर्मोक्तिविरोधः, धर्म्युक्तिविरोधश् चेति,

▼ Buitenen

[[47]]

First, there is no contradiction within the statement. This type of contradiction is of three kinds of mere utterance; or utterance of property; and of utterance of substance.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

तत्र न तावद् उक्तिमात्र-विरुद्धोऽयं पक्षः,
न हि "पञ्च-रात्र-शास्त्रं प्रमाणम्" इति प्रतिज्ञा-वचनं
स्वार्थं व्याहान्ति - यथा "यावज्-जीवम् अहं मौनी" इति, (5)

▼ Buitenen

Firstly, the proposition is not contradicted by its mere utterance, for the statement of the thesis "Pañcarātra Sastra is authoritative" does not cancel its own content, as does, for instance, the statement:

"During my entire life I have kept silence."

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

नापि धर्मोक्ति-विरोधः, न हि प्रामाण्यं
पञ्च-रात्रोद्देशेन विधीयमानं पक्षं प्रतिक्षिपति
सर्व-वाक्यानाम् इव मिथ्यात्व-वचनम् (५)

▼ Buitenen

Secondly, there is no contradiction through utterance of property, as for example the statement: "All statements are untrue;" for the authoritativeness predicated of Pañcarātra does not cancel the proposition.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

नापि धर्म्य-उक्ति-विरोधः,
सत्य अपि धर्मिणि, धर्मन्वयस्याऽविरुद्धत्वात्।
न हि जननीत्वम् इव वन्ध्यात्वेन
पञ्च-रात्र-शास्त्रत्वं प्रामाण्येन विरुद्धम् (प. ३२) (५)

▼ Buitenen

Thirdly, there is no contradiction through utterance of substance, since in the given substance a connection with the given property is not contradictory:

Pancarātra is not contradicted by its property authoritativeness, as motherhood is contradicted by the property sterility.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

न हि विवादाध्यासितस्य प्रामाण्य-प्रतिज्ञाने
तत्र श्रुत्य-उक्त-धर्मि-विशेष-विरोधः -
(वेद-)विहित-हिंसानाम् इवाधर्मत्व-प्रतिज्ञाने (तत्-तत्-परिहारण) विवादाध्यासस्योपलक्षत्वात्,

▼ Buitenen

For upon the assertion of the authoritativeness of the substance in question, it is not contradicted by any particular substance named in Revelation, since the imputation of questionableness is secondary, as in the case of the assertion that certain acts of violence which are enjoined are against the dharma,¹²

▼ Buitenen - Notes

The Vedic injunction na hin̄syāt sarvabhūtāni "one should not injure any being" raises the question of the validity of injunctions which do require injury to beings.
But this is a secondary question which does not affect the validity of the Veda as a whole.
Similarly, the thesis "Pañcaratra is valid" is not disproved by the possible mention in the valid Veda of something that conflicts with something in Pañcaratra.
So far the argument is not for validity but against invalidity.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः:

अतो वा नागमविरोधः, तद् एवं प्रतिपन्नः पक्षः ।

▼ Buitenen

There is, therefore, no contradiction by language statement; so that we conclude that the proposition is presentable.

०३ हेतु-सौष्ठवम्②

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः:

नापि हेतोर् अनैकान्तिकत्वादयो दोषाः ।

▼ Buitenen

59. Nor is the ground affected by logical defects, like occasional application etc.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

तथा हि न तावद् अनैकान्तिकः,

▼ Buitenen

The ground is not occasionally applicable to other terms.

नानैकान्तिकः③

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

यथा "पृथिवी-नित्यत्व-साधने प्रमेयत्वं" (इत्य् अनित्येष्व अपि वर्तमानो हेतुः) साधारणः,

असाधारणस्य "तत्रैव गन्धवत्त्वम्" (इत्य् अन्यत्रादृश्यमानो हेतुः)

▼ Buitenen

[[48]]

This fallacy of occasionalness is of two kinds, general occasionalness and special occasionalness.

An instance of the first kind provides the ground in the argument:

"The earth is eternal, because it is knowable."

Of the second kind: "The earth is eternal, because it, possesses smell."

▼ Buitenen - Notes

Since pots are knowable, the ground would also apply to prove the eternality of pots and all things that are knowable.

Since only earth (as an element) possesses smell, this ground has no general applicability.

▼ Buitenen

Our ground, namely,

"Pañcaratra is authoritative, because it produces faultless knowledge", does not apply equally whether it is authoritative or not, which would render the ground generally-occasional.¹²⁶

▼ Buitenen - Notes

Like the ground "because it is knowable" which applies to things regardless of whether they are eternal or not.

न साधारणत्वात्④

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

न हि निर्दोष-ज्ञानकारणत्वम् अ-प्रमाण-भूत--विप्रलभ्मक-वचनादिषु विपक्षेषु दृष्टचरम् ।

▼ Buitenen

For this ground, namely its being a cause of faultless knowledge, has not been found before in the alternative propositions that Pañcaratra is deceptive and hence nonauthoritative.

नासाधारणत्वात्④

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

नाप्य असाधारणः -

ज्योतिष्-टोमादि-वाक्य-दृष्टान्ताभिधानेनैव स-पक्षान्वयस्य प्रदर्शितत्वात् ।

▼ Buitenen

Neither does the ground have a specially occasional application, because the illustration "like statements on Vedic sacrifices such as jyotiṣṭoma etc."

shows its connection with other instances on the same side of the argument.

न विरुद्धः③

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

नापि विरुद्धः;

विपरीत-व्याप्त्य-अभावात्,

न हि निर्दोष-ज्ञान-कारणत्वम् अप्रामाण्येन व्याप्तम् ।

▼ Buitenen

Nor is the ground precluded, since there is no concomitance of its opposite; being a cause of faultless knowledge is not invariably accompanied by nonauthoritativeness.

न कालात्ययः③

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

न च कालात्ययापदिष्टः -

प्रत्यक्ष-विरोधाभावात्

▼ Buitenen

Nor is the ground cancelled by lapse of time, since there is no conflict with Perception and in this it is analogous with Scripture.

Nor is the ground itself unproved or unestablished.
If a ground is unestablished, this is because either its locus or its essence is unestablished.
The first does not apply, for its locus is Pañicarātra Sastra, which is proved to exist.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

नापि स्व-रूपासिद्धः,
सोऽपि त्रेधा - अज्ञान-सन्देह-विपर्ययभेदात्,

▼ Buitenen

Nor does the second apply:
for there are three ways in which a ground may be unestablished as to its essence:
through ignorance, through dubiety, or through reversion.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

न तावद् अ-ज्ञानासिद्धिः,
तत्-प्रतिपादक-शब्दोच्चारणात्,

▼ Buitenen

Ignorance does not apply, as follows from the fact that the words describing the ground are pronounced.

▼ Buitenen - Notes

Obviously, if the ground were not known, it could not be stated.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

नापि संदिग्धासिद्धः,
निर्दोषत्वस्य वादिनः स्वयं सिद्धत्वात्,
प्रतिवादिनो ऽपि दोषानुपलभाद् एवानायास-सिद्धत्वात्,

▼ Buitenen

Nor does dubiety apply, for that the ground is correct is undoubted and self-evident to the defender of the proposition, while for the opponent the same is easily proved by the fact that no defects are apprehended in it.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

विपर्यासिद्धिस्तु दूरोत्सारितैव ।

That the ground would be unestablished through reversal is utterly out of the question.

This objection seems to speak to the summary denial that the ground is unestablished through reversion.

There too it arises instantly, since the Vedas are language-statements.

▼ Buitenen

When you reply, it is avoided because the Vedas have no personal author, then you may realize that in our case, too, it is avoided, since the Tantras have been composed by the Supreme Person, who is omniscient and eternally satisfied, and you may keep quiet!

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

▼ Buitenen

What I mean to say is this.

Our position is that in language as such there are no defects that invalidate its authority;
as language, language is authoritative,

▼ Buitenen - Notes

Be it repeated that the validity, authoritativeness, etc. of Verbal Statements (ie, shabdapramāna) is founded on the basic assumption that statements truly and accurately communicate their things-meant (artha), that a word accurately conveys its meaning. Among these things meant Yamuna includes facts as well as karyas, hence the following debate with the Prabhakara,

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

Its authority is in certain cases invalidated by defects in the character of the speaker, for instance in a language statement,

Consider the illustration that has been given above (supra § 37.),
When certain manifestations (of joy) in a man's face, which follow on his hearing the statement
"A son has been born to you," make it appear that the man spoken-to is happy, one instantly understands that his happiness is the result of his receiving from this statement a knowledge of an agreeable meaning, and one then infers that,
for a medium-aged person too,
this happiness derives from the statement.
Thus one concludes that, since this happiness came to exist upon the existence of the statement, the statement itself has the power to convey an agreeable meaning.

and he realizes that this meaning was precisely this that a son had been born. 13

▼ Buitenen - Notes

Yamuna here takes up the Prabhakara's theory that a child learns the meaning of language through the action his elders take on hearing a statement, so that the denotativeness of language is defined by its injunctiveness.

He uses the Prabhakara's example of the factual statement: "A child is born to you."

A child who does not know language has no way of understanding the meaning of this statement because the young father's happiness conveys nothing specific.

But, asks Yamuna, suppose the same child has witnessed his father reception of the cheering news and the subsequent preparations for a birth ceremony.

Since one follows immediately upon the other,

the child associates one with the other and can thus understand the meaning of the statement, though the statement itself was no injunction, but a communication of an established fact,

And on that issue:

Definite knowledge of the denotation of words in a sentence is had through the words that are included or excluded. This being so, [51] words denote their meanings, whether these are established things or not.

If he says, indeed, whenever their being a padārtha is significantly construed, it is construed just as connected with kārya, we reply, Stop being obstinate; for verbal exchange is also possible through denotation of words that are connected with other things than kāryas.¹³⁵

▼ Buitenen - Note

135: Yāmuna's argument is that the injunctive, etc. terminations of the verb denote the injunction as their thing-meant (padārtha); but what makes this injunction 'meaningful' is not that it is an injunction, but that it is connected with someone who is qualified to accept the injunction,

e.g., in the injunction svargakāmo yajeta.

The injunctive yajña has no meaning or purpose unless there is a "desire for heaven;"

the meaning of the injunction thus is connected with the consequence of this desire of heaven, namely, that somebody who has this desire is prepared to do something about it.

since these suffixes denote their own meanings as connected, not with kārya, but with consequences of already established facts, such as proper qualification on the part of the person enjoined etc.

▼ नरसिंहः

Even the 'lin'-suffix is found to depend upon a host of factors like the qualified aspirant (adhikārin), the means (sādhana) and the thing to be attained (sādhyā). Cf. the following verse:

तस्माद् आकाङ्क्षितासन्नयोग्यार्थान्तरसङ्गतेः ।

▼ Buitenen

Or if it is said that in their case there is denotation of connected meanings and in the other case denotation of meanings connected with kārya, we reply that this is a neither old nor young, argument;136 it is more appropriate simply to accept the view that there is denotation of connected meanings in general.

▼ Buitenen - Note

136: ardha-jarati is a half-old woman; the ardha-jaratiyanyāya is used to indicate that the opponent wants to have it both ways and that consequently his argument, like a half-old and half-young woman, is useless either way.

▼ नरसिंहः

For an explanation of the ardha-jarati-nyaya see Nyayasudha under I. iii. 1, p. 135:

“केनचित् पाशुपतेन सबन्धस्य सर्वजरत्या योषितो ऽनुपभोग्यत्वात्, इति लोक-प्रवादोऽर्धजरतीशब्दे।

Also cf. Bhuvanesvarīlalaukikanyayasaḥasrī, p. 104: “ यत्र सर्वत्यागे ग्रहणे

64. Therefore, the adherents of all schools should accept that words have proper denotation for the meanings they denote because these meanings are connected with other meanings that are required to complete the sense of the statement, are closely collocated and are appropriate.

▼ नरसिंहः

Words convey their sense only in connection with such other idea or factor that is complete to its sense (ākāṅkṣita), that is compatible with it (yogya) and which is supplied by a word uttered along with it (āsanna). Kārya should therefore occupy a subordinate but not the supreme position in the scheme of significance of words.

137: Miśra's text here has pady api partly anu papattisamadhigamaniyaiva śabdaśaktis "the denoting power of language is to be known only through the impossibility of operation," which makes no sense. The reading must be corrupt, in anu papatti we may find a corruption of vyutpatti, in pravṛtti perhaps a corruption of kāryārthe or kāryārtha-. I read conjecturally kāryārthe vyutpatti-samadhigamanīyaiva, which gives the required sense.

The logicians hold the view that the meaning of a language statement cannot be known except by language statement.¹³⁸ Consequently, there exists no inherent relationship with kārya as cause of denotation in uses of words that have their proper signification, just as is the case with floating precious stones on water.

▼ नरसिंहः

The quality of gems is tested by putting them in water. If they float, that is an indication of their superiority. This method of testing or the knowledge regarding the test is no doubt useful in determining the class of gems; but it is of no avail at the time of wearing them. On this analogy, it is argued that the knowledge of 'karya' though useful to arrive at the significance of words, is not useful at the time of using those words.

Just as this floating, however helpful it may be to determine the identity of certain diamonds, e.g. the brahmin diamond, serves no purpose when a stone is being transacted which has already been properly identified, similarly the kārya, however helpful to understand the proper signification of a word, serves no purpose once its proper signification has been identified.

▼ नरसिंहः:

For a classification of gems as 'male' and 'female', see Ratnadipikā of Candeśvara, Śls. 11-13, and for a classification into the four castes 'brāhmaṇa', Kṣatriya', 'vaisya' and 'śūdra see Ratnasāstra : sls. 21 and 23.

▼ नरसिंहः

 'Niyoga' is another name coined by Prabhakara to denote Apurva. See Karmamimāṃsā, pp. 74-75-

Mīmāṃsā does not believe in any God that receives the offerings from the votaries and rewards them accordingly.

"There must, therefore, be a capacity, which does not exist prior to the sacrificial action, either in the principal performance or in the agent,

but which is generated in the course of the performance.

Before a man performs a sacrifice, which will lead to heaven, there is an incapacity in the offering and in the man himself to secure that result, but when he has performed it, he becomes, as a result of the action, endowed with a potency, styled 'apūrva', which in the course of time, will secure for him the end desired.

The existence of this potency is testified to in the scriptures;

its necessity is apparent by the means of proof known as Presumption (arthāpatti).

We find in the Veda, assertions that sacrifices produce certain results, and, as the operation of the sacrifice, as we see it, is transient, the truth of the scripture would be vitiated if we did not accept the theory of Apūrva.

Nor is there anything illogical in this doctrine; every action sets in force activities in substances or agents, and these come to fruition when the necessary auxiliaries are present.

The action specified is called into existence by the injunction contained in the form of an optative in a sentence in the Veda.

From this doctrine, Prabhakara dissents, elaborating instead, a theory which is obviously a refinement on the simple view which Kumārlila accepts from the older writers of the school and which best suits the Mimāṃsā Sūtras.

In his opinion, the injunction rests in the sentence as a whole, not in the optative verb, and he denies that from the action there arises directly the Apurva.

On the contrary the process is that the injunctive sentence lays down A Mandate, Niyoga;
this excites the man to exertion, and this exertion pertains to some form of action, indicated by the verb of the injunctive sentence.

The exertion produces in the agent a result (karya) to which also the name of Niyoga is given by Prabhakara, on the ground that it is this which acts as an Incentive to the agent to put forth exertion towards the performance of the action denoted by the verb of the injunctive clause.

The Niyoga, however, is unable to produce its result, unless aided by something which Śālikanatha styles fate, nor is it apparent that either in his terminology, or in his view of the process,

Prabhakara's doctrine is any superior to that of Kumārila.
It seems as if primarily it arose from nothing more important than the observation that The result produced in the agent was in one sense his motive to action as much As the sentence directing the action to be done, leading to a transfer of the term Niyoga, naturally applicable to the sentence, to the condition in the agent to which the more orthodox name of Apurva was usually applied. "

" In simple sacrifices, there is only one Apūrva produced, but in more complicated sacrifices, there may be several, as a rule, four....

But it is not every action which brings out an Apurva; these actions, which are devoted simply to some material result, though a part of the sacrifice, such as the appointment of priests or the threshing of corn are not credited with any such effect, as they serve an immediate purpose and need no further explanation".

For the injunction draws unto itself the desirous person who himself thinks that the heaven which he desires is the principal object, in the same way as the injunction to perform the periodical acts activates a person, even though he does not desire anything, to these acts which bear no fruit at all.

Besides, a person who is desirous of heaven also opens and shuts his eyes; for you these actions do not subserve his realization of heaven. Why not consider the sacrificing an action of the same kind?

and that

▼ नरसिंहः

This view of Prabhakara regarding the validity pertaining to the statements made by human beings, has already been stated and refuted briefly by Yamuna.

He now exposes in detail, the untenability and absurdity of this view and proves that even sentences uttered by people in the world possess verbal authority, but not inferential authority.

See the verse "tasmādasti madillie ", etc., following.

For these statements, though their denotations in conveying certain meanings are consciously known once their proper meanings have been learnt, do not furnish complete certainty about their meanings merely upon being heard by a listener, when they are accompanied by doubt which is created by the listener's observation that in one case or other statements have deviated from their proper meanings.

73. REFUTATION. This view is not correct; for a word conveys its right meaning as its natural function, and the observation that in one case the statement happened to be untrue under the influence of defects in the speaker's character should not give rise to a general suspicion which would cause all statement to give up its natural capacity of conveying its meaning.¹⁴⁹

Nor do statements concerning a fact lack authority because of the consideration that since either a proving or disproving factor may unexpectedly turn up there remains the possibility that this fact is thus repeated or reversed;
for the same may equally well happen to a statement concerning,
not a fact, but a karya.

▼ Buitenen - Notes

The validity of shabda lies in its communicating contents that cannot be known through other means of knowledge.

What I translate as 'facts' are more literally "established [[129]] entities," established, that is, by other means of knowledge than shabda.

A scriptural statement of the kind "grass is green" is not strictly valid

in the sense that, in order to know that grass is green, we need a scriptural statement to that effect.

Another proving factor, c.g., the means of knowledge Perception, may turn up conceivably and thus make the scriptural statement superfluous;

or we may find that grass is not invariably green, but changes its colour, which would reverse the scriptural statement.

Scriptural validity, i.e., Scripture's being a means of knowledge, is to the Prabhakara Mimimsaka, its being the sole means of knowing a particular thing.

To the Prabhakara this validity is ideal in the case of injunctions concerning actions which, suprasensibly, lead to a certain desired end.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

▼ Buitenen

A kārya, too, may be known from other means of knowledge, for it must be admitted that ordinary karyas, like 'fetch firewood' are also known through other means of knowledge, as in the case of the cooking of the odana.

▼ Buitenen - Notes

(The injunction concerning the odana oblation includes an injunction concerning the preparation of the odana and the fetching of firewood for the cooking. Since experience shows that for a cooking fire one needs firewood, this karya is not strictly known on scriptural authority.)

If See p. 47 above for the Mimāmsaka's argument. The illustration of the arthavāda - "ādityo yūpah" [Taittiriya Brāhmaṇa - II-i-5-2] was put forth there. This view is now being refuted. The figurative statement "adityo yūpah" is made on the ground of similitude of brightness (tejasvitva) between the Sun and the sacrificial post. The relevant sūtra is " sārupyat " [Pūrvamimāmsā - I. iv. 25]. § The rk to be repeated while anointing the yupa with ghee is- "añjanti tvāmadhvare devayantah " (Taittiriya Brāhmaṇa - VII. p. 142). In the upaniṣadic texts the knowledge of brahman is declared to be rewarded by great bliss: "the brahman-knower becomes brahman";159 "the brahman-knower attains the supreme";160

▼ Buitenen - Note

158: This must refer to the śruti sa yo ha vai tat param veda brahma veda brahmaiva bhavati (quoted Rāmānuja, Vedārthaśaṁgraha, 91), which I have been unable to locate.

the human importance of statements without injunctions is quite clear from these and other scriptural words.

regard it as a corruption of vipaścītā.

To sum up, when it is established that the Bhagavān is the treasury solely of beautiful qualities of direct universal cognition, compassionateness etc., qualities which are true and natural to Him, and which we know from hundreds of quoted śrutis, then it is also established that the Tantra which is based on His universal cognition is authoritative indeed.

Note the way in which Yamuna connects the previous discussion with the main theme, viz, the validity of the Pāñcarātra-texts, based upon the author- ship of Narayana, the Supreme and Omniscient Being.

79. OBJECTION. Granted that, as you have described it, there exists some Person who is endowed with natural omniscience, as it is known from the upaniṣads, yet, unless it is absolutely certain that this Person is indeed Hari, Pañcaratra will not be authoritative.

▼ नरसिंहः

† The doubt expressed here by the opponent is as to who, among the trinity—Brahmā, Visnu and Siva, is the Supreme Deity.

the supreme sages Sandilya,.. Narada and others have rejected this pleasure, the reward of release is attained by knowing

तद् एव श्रीभाष्ये ऽनुवर्तिं रामानुजेनेति च श्रीभाष्ये (ii.2.35-37) !??

सम्बद्धम् - TW1

▼ Buitenen

The same is. true of the Kalamukhas who teach that certain practices, which are condemned by all the [[70]] sāstras,
like eating from a skull, bathing in and tasting of ashes of cremated corpses, carrying a laguḍa staff,
putting up wine-cups and worshipping the deity in them,
will secure all material and immaterial desires:
these teachings are outside the Veda.

पाशुपताः③

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

यद् अपि पाशुपत-शैवाभ्यां विरुद्धविरुद्ध-सम- (मिश्रण-) मुग्धं किञ्चिद् अभिहितं तद् अपि श्रुति-बहिष्ट-कृतम् एव ।

▼ Buitenen

84. Also some of the teachings of the Pasupatas and the Saivas in which compatible and incompatible elements are indiscriminately mixed are likewise outside the Veda,

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

तत्रैषा पाशुपतप्रक्रिया ।

▼ Buitenen

The Pasupata system is as follows:

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

जीवाः पशव उच्यन्ते
तेषाम् अधिपतिश् शिवः ।
स तेषाम् उपकाराय
पञ्चाध्यायीम् अचीकृपत् ॥

▼ Buitenen

there are individual souls which are called paśus, cattle, and their overlord is Siva, the Lord of Cattle.

To assist the souls Siva has composed the Paficādhyāyi. ("The Doctrine of the Five Chapters.")

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

तत्र पञ्च पदार्थस् तु
व्याख्याताः कारणादयः ।
कारणं कार्यं विधिर् योगो

इति,

▼ Buitenen

There the five Categories are explained, namely,
Cause, Effect, Injunction, Yoga and the Cessation of Misery.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

उपादानं निमित्तज् च
व्याख्यातं कारणं द्विधा ।
निमित्त-कारणं रुद्रस्
तत्-कला कारणान्तरम् ॥

▼ Buitenen

The Cause is of two kinds, material and instrumental.
Rudra is the instrumental cause and a sixteenth part of him is the material cause.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

महू-अन्तं महद्-आदि कार्यम् उदितं, तद्वद् विधिर् गीयते ।
गूढाचार-मुख-स्मशान-भसित-स्नानावसानः परः(??) ॥
(छन्दः??)

▼ Buitenen

The Effect comprises the elements from Mahat to earth.
The Injunction is stated to comprehend principally a number of rites, secret practices, bathing and lying in ashes etc. 182

▼ Buitenen - Notes

Mahat - The highest material evolute; the sloka is out of order.

The text reads gūthācāramukhasmasānabhasitāvasānah parejī??, which is a corruption; I read, wholly conjecturally gūdhācabhasmasnānaśa yanādikrijāparah.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

योगो धारणम् उच्यते
हृदि धियाम् ओड्कार-पूर्वन् तथा ।
दुःखान्तो हि मतो उपर्वग
इति ते पञ्चाणि संकीर्तिः ॥

▼ Buitenen

The Yoga is said to be concentration and the muttering of formula, OM etc.

The Cessation of Misery is held to be release;

The term "cessation' of misery" means total and final cessation of misery.

thus the five Categories are enumerated.

▼ Buitenen - Notes

The text reads yogo dharanam ucjate hydi dhiyām onkarapuream tatha, and seems out of order. The sense is clear however.

मुक्ति-कल्पना ③

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

आत्यान्तिकी दुःख-निवृत्तिर् दुखान्त-शब्देनोक्ता
ताम् एव निशेष-वैशेषिकात्म-गुणोच्छेद-लक्षणां मुक्तिं मन्यते।

▼ Buitenen

The system holds that this cessation or release is defined by the annihilation of all the qualities of the differential soul.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

इयमेव चेश्वरकल्पना शैवानामन्येषां च ।

▼ Buitenen

This conception of God is held by the Saivas as well as the others.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

सेयं सर्वा श्रुति-विरुद्धा कल्पना यतः -

▼ Buitenen

[[71]]

And this view of God is entirely, incompatible with Scripture, for

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

जगन्-निमित्तोपादानं
परं ब्रह्म श्रुतौ श्रुतम् ।
महानन्दात्मको मोक्षस्
तत्र तत्रासकृच् छृतः ॥

▼ Buitenen

it is revealed in śruti that the Supreme Brahman is both the material and the instrumental cause of the Universe.

Also, it is repeatedly revealed in the scriptures that release consists in perfect bliss.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

परस्परविरोधेन
व्याहतैषां प्रमाणता ।
त्रयी-दण्ड-प्रतिक्षेपं
किञ्चिव्न् नैव प्रतीक्षते ॥

▼ Buitenen

As the authoritativeness of these Tantras is already vitiated by their mutual contradictions, it is not really necessary for them to be rejected with the stick of the Veda.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

किञ्च शैवादयो वेद-सिद्धवर्णाश्रमाद् बहिः ।
कल्पयन्त्य आश्रमादीनि
ततोऽपि श्रुति-बाह्यता ॥

▼ Buitenen

85. Moreover, the Saivas etc. accept stages of life etc.
that are outside the varnasrama system that is proved by the Veda and are consequently outside the Veda.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

यदाहुः -

दीक्षा-प्रवेश-मात्रेण
ब्राह्मणो भवति क्षणात् । कापालं व्रतम् आस्थाय यतिर् भवति मानवः ॥

इति ।

▼ Buitenen

As they say," merely by entering Consecration one becomes instantly a Brahmin.
A man becomes an ascetic by accepting the Kāpālika vow."

तन्त्रान्तर-मूलम्③

शिवाप्रणीतता④

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

न च वाच्यम् "अ-प्रमाण-भूतम् इयन्तं ग्रन्थराशिं कथं प्रत्ययिततरो रुद्रः प्रणयती"ति ।

▼ Buitenen

86. Let it not be said, How could Rudra, who is very trustworthy, promulgate such a vast collection of texts which are not authoritative?

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

न च समान-नाम-निर्मातृ-स्मरण-निबन्धनम् इति युक्तम्
आति-प्रसङ्गादिति, यतः-

▼ Buitenen

Nor is it right to hold that these texts are based upon the recollection of an author of the same name as Siva,
because the ground is overextensive.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

(शिवाख्योऽपरः कर्त्तवी) नामैकत्व-कृत-भ्रान्ति- कल्पना उपपद्यते ।
वेद-बाधान्, न चान्यत्र (पाञ्चरात्रादौ)
तावता अतिप्रसज्यते ॥

▼ Buitenen

For the theory that the author was in error and could be in error, because he was not Siva
but some other person with the same name, can only follow if the Veda sublates the system;
this latter ground is sufficient to prove the lack of authority of these texts and entails no overextension to other texts.

प्रमादः④

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

प्रमादोऽपि च नात्यन्तं लुद्वादिषु न सम्भवी ।(4)

▼ Buitenen

And error is not entirely impossible in the case of such persons as Rudra etc.

मोह-शास्त्रम्④

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

यद् वा रुद्रस्य मोह-शास्त्र-प्रणेतृतया उवगतत्वाद्
व्यामोहपितुम् एव हीदृश-शास्त्र-प्रणयनम् उपपद्यत इति नावश्यं प्रमाद एवाश्रयितव्यः,

▼ Buitenen

Or else one may reason that since Rudra may have composed such a system for the purpose of deceiving the world because he is known as a promulgator of deceitful doctrines, it is not even necessary to assume error on his part.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

तथा च वाराहे ।

त्वं हि रुद्र! महाबाहो!
मोहशास्त्राणि कारय । कुहकादीन्द्र-जालानि
विरुद्धाचरणानि च ॥

▼ Buitenen

[[72]]

For thus it reads in the Varaha Purana,

"For Thou, strong-armed Rudra, must cause deluding doctrines to be expounded, the deceptions of jugglers (sic) and the like as well as conflicting practices.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

दर्शयित्वाऽल्पमायासं
फलं शीघ्रं प्रदर्शय ।
दर्शयित्वा जनं सर्वं मोहयाशु महेश्वर! ॥

इति ।

▼ Buitenen

Having shown that the fruit can be won with little effort, you must delude all these people quickly."84

▼ Buitenen - Notes

[[139]]

corresponds to Varaha Purana. 70.36 tvam ca rudra mahabaho

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

तथा तत्रैव भगवान् रुद्रः

▼ Buitenen

Similarly, the venerable Rudra himself shows in the same Purana that the Saiva and the like scriptures which are there being discussed

are apostate from the Veda, that only apostates from the Veda are qualified for these doctrines and that their only purpose is just to deceive them.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

in order to deceive those who have deserted the Way of the Veda.185

▼ Buitenen - Notes

cf. Varāha Pur., 70.41, which in cd reads nayasiddhanta sam jñabhir

From that time onward, O excellent Ones,

do not respect the Vedas.16

cf. Variha Pur., 70.38, which reads in cd shastrejo?? abhirato loko

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

तथा पाशुपतादीनि

▼ Buitenen

Thus the Pasupata and like doctrines are active in the Kali Age.

▼ Buitenen - Notes

nearest is Varaha Pur., 70.42, tada pasupatam sastram jāyate vedasanjaitam.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

तथा च भगवत्-परिवारत्व-व्यतिरेकेण

▼ Buitenen

Likewise he shows that the worship concerning himself as it is propounded in the Pasupata Tantras and other such Tantras is different and does not form part of the worship of the Bhagavan:

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

तद् वेदबाह्यं कर्मोक्तं

तद् वै पाशुपतं नाम

▼ Buitenen

"The said act of worship concerning me which is being observed is really outside the Veda.

This ritual called Pasupata is the lowliest and deceives men.188"

▼ Buitenen - Notes

cf. Varaha Pur., 70.21, yad vedabāhyam karma ṣṣācchāstram udditya

▼ Buitenen

"Only the lowest people worship me with exclusion of Visnu."
The large numbers of statements like the preceding ones will not be written out here, because they are too numerous.

▼ Buitenen - Notes

[189]: cf. Varaha Pur., 70.40, mam vimor oyatiriktam ye brahmasiat

It is clear enough that those who follow these scriptures are outside the Veda,

as is stated in the same Purana:

"He cursed those who kept the observances of hairtuft,

Be you outside the Veda and disqualified for Vedic rites.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

इति,

▼ Buitenen

[[73]] In the Kali Age all those who assume that appearance, observances and carrying false lingas about,

fire of Brahma's curse."
(not identified.)

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

प्रसिद्धज् चैतच् छैवागमेषु ।

▼ Buitenen

These practices are well-known in the Saiva scriptures:

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

रुद्राक्षं कङ्कणं हस्ते

कपालं भस्मना स्नानम्

इत्यादि ।

▼ Buitenen

"Rosary, and bracelet in the hand, a hair-tuft on the head, a skull, bathing in ashes etc,"

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

तथा चैतेषामादित्य-पुराणेऽपि
भगवत्-त्यागेन समं वेद-त्यागं कथयति ।

▼ Buitenen

Similarly, he declares in the Aditya Purana that along with relinquishing the Bhagavan they relinquish the Veda:

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

अन्ये भस्मजटोपेता यथोक्ता गौतमात् पुरा ।
शापात् सन्त्याजिता वेदं

इति ।

▼ Buitenen

"Others, those that wear ashes and hair-tufts as described have formerly been made to relinquish the Veda as well as God Nārāyaṇa on account of Gautama's curse."

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

किञ्चैते वासुदेवस्य
मन्दा निन्दां वितन्वते ।

ते च पाषण्डिनो ज्ञेया यथा लैङ्गै समीरितम् ॥

▼ Buitenen

Moreover, those fools who pass censure on Vasudeva are to be regarded as heretics, for thus it is declared in the Linga Puriṇa,

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः:

ये तु सामान्यभावेन
मन्यन्ते पुरुषोत्तमम् ।
ते वै पाषण्डिनो ज्ञेया
वेद-मार्ग-बहिष्कृताः ॥(5)

इति,

▼ Buitenen

"Those who consider the Supreme Person to be equal (to Siva) are to be regarded as heretics who are expelled from the Way of the Veda," (not identified.)

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः:

इत्य-आदि-स्मृतिषूदितम् ॥
"या वेद-बाह्या" इत्य-एतद्
अपि चेदृशगोचरम् ।

▼ Buitenen

To conclude, it is these followers of other Tantras of whom it is said, in the smṛtis:

"Heretics, criminals etc.", that they should not be honoured even with a word;

let the defect be granted. But is in your own view knowledge not self-proved?

[[74]]

REFUTATION.

Certainly; but this self-validity of knowledge is here negated by these two defects of sublation, namely, sublation through Perception origin and through Scripture, for both these defects are plain in their case.

would mean that Brahmin Murder and Horse Sacrifice are on the same level because both are actions, (which are seen in the scripture, For in that case, we've determined their source).

For in the case of Pañcaratra Sastra we have positive certainty that it is based on Scripture and Perception.

88. OBJECTION. I made the objections (supra 12) that if its being based on Scripture follows from its being established by the Veda, then it cannot be assumed that the author was independent.

▼ Buitenen

REFUTATION. No. Surely, we can assume no independence in man, but for God it is revealed in Scripture, e.g.,
"To Him all the world is manifest..." (Taitt Up. 2.8.1.)
"From fear for Him..." (Aitareya Br.)

१० न वेद-बाह्यम्②

वेद-मूलता③

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

ननु वेदमूला एव चेदेताः पञ्चरात्र-स्मृतयः - किं तर्हि तद्-अर्थ-स्मरणवत् तन्-मूल-भूत-वेद-वाक्य-स्मरणं नानुवर्तते पाञ्च-रात्रिकाणाम् ?

▼ Buitenen

89. OBJECTION.

But if the Pañcaratra traditions are really derived from the Veda, then how is it that no recollection of the Vedic words which furnishes this basis has persisted among the Pañcaratrikas, whereas the meaning of these words apparently does persist?

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

न "चार्थस्मरणस्य प्रयोजनवत्त्वात्
तस्य विफलत्वात् तद्-अनादरणीयम्"

इति युक्तम्,
न हि यतः प्रामाण्यं तदेव विस्मर्तु युक्तम् ।

▼ Buitenen

It is not right to contend that only the recollection of the meaning is important because that has purpose while the recollection of the actual Vedic statements is to be disregarded
because it is purposeless;
for it is not proper to forget that from which the meaning's authority derives.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

अथ विस्मरणोपपत्तये प्रलीन-नित्यानुमेय-शाखा-मूलता आश्रीयते।

▼ Buitenen

[[75]]
Or if, in order to justify this oblivion, the standpoint is taken that the doctrine is based on a Vedic sakha which has been lost or which is always deducible,

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

तदा यद् एव येन प्रमाणतया परिगृहीतं
स तत्-प्रलीन-शाखा-मस्तके निक्षिप्य प्रमाणी-कुर्यात्।
नित्यानुमेय-प्रलीन-शाखयोस्तु स्व-रूप-सिद्धिर् एव दुर्लभा ।

▼ Buitenen

then whatever doctrine a person adopts he can always make authoritative simply by attributing it to a lost śākhā;

however, it is hard to prove what a lost or deducible śākhā actually contain.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

▼ Buitenen

Or if these traditions are based on an extant Sakha, then others would know it as well as the author, and hence his taking the trouble of promulgating these texts would be purposeless.

REFUTATION.

The reply to this is as follows:

The Bhagavan, who has an immediate presentation of the entire collection of the Veda by virtue of the perfect knowledge that is natural to Him, observed that his devotees were not firm enough in their minds to retain and transmit the lessons of all the various sakhas which consist of widely scattered injunctions, arthavadas and mantras of many different kinds, and having observed this he was moved by his compassion to condense the meaning of the Veda in an easily comprehensible way and to teach it so.

On this showing, nothing is unestablished.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

As they say

"The blessed Hari took the essence of the Upanisads and condensed it, the Sage, out of compassion with his devotees for their convenience."

▼ Buitenen

The other objections made, which are equally applicable to all Traditions of Manu and the others, are easily answered by all those who have made a diligent study of the commentaries on the Tantras and are not further enlarged upon here.

The thesis that the Pañcarātra Tantras are based on the Veda is disproved by the fact that we find in these very Tantras a condemnation of the Veda.

REFUTATION.

This is the objection of someone who does not know the distinct meaning of the statement. For this censure does not mean to censure something deserving of censure, but rather to praise something else than that which is censured.

▼ Buitenen

For instance, in the Aitareya Brahmana the censure passed on the pre-dawn oblation "Morning upon morning they speak untruth," is understood to praise the post-dawn oblation.

It is as in the Manavadharma Shastra (Manusmrti, 4.124.):

"The Rgveda is of gods and deities,
the Yajurveda of man, and the Samaveda of the deceased;

therefore its sound is impure;"

here the censure of the Samaveda serves to praise the other Vedas.

"Formerly the assembled seers placed the four Vedas and the Mahabharata in the balance, one at one side, the other at the other side.

it is called the Great Bharata for its bulk and weight."
This is said, not to belittle the Vedas, but to bestow praise on the Mahabharata.

In this same way the above statement must be taken as praise of the Pancarātra.

Just as the censure of the pre-dawn oblation etc.
does not really intend censure, since elsewhere in the same texts they are praised,
so will it be in our case too.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

▼ Buitenen

[[77]]

In Pañcaratra, too, we frequently find praise of the Veda;

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

न हि तेभ्यः परं किञ्चिद् वाङ्मयं कमलासन ।
वेदान्तैर् इदम् एवोक्तं
तत्त्व-ज्ञानोपपादकैः ॥

इत्यादौ ।

▼ Buitenen

for example: "Nothing that is made up of words is superior to the Veda, thou who art seated on the Lotus.

That is said by the Upanisads which set forth the knowledge of truth"
etc.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

अपि च "चतुर्षु वेदेषु" इति नायम् अर्थः - वेदेषु पुरुषार्थो नास्तीति किन्तु

इति ।

▼ Buitenen

91. Besides in the quotation caturṣu vedeṣu (supra §17) the meaning is not that there is no purpose of human importance in the Vedas but simply "failing to find the purpose of human importance which is in the Vedas..."

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

ननु "पुरुषार्थम्" "अलभमान" इत्यन्वयो न "वेदेषु पुरुषार्थम्" इति,

▼ Buitenen

OBJECTION. However, the principal connection in this sentence is between
"failing to find" and "a purpose of human importance;"
not between "purpose of human importance" and "in the Vedas."

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

▼ Buitenen

REFUTATION. Don't argue like that, for there is no negation in the sentence.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

इति पञ्च-रात्र-श्रुत्योर् ऐकार्थ्यम् एव प्रतीयते ।

▼ Buitenen

For it is not so that this purpose of human importance is absent from the Vedas;
hence the sentence "failing to find that purpose of human importance which is in the Vedas, and desirous of finding it, he learnt the Pañcarātra Sastra," conveys that both Revelation and Pañcaratra have the same meaning.

92. The further objection (Supra § 17) that Pañcaratra is non-Vedic because of the injunction that those who are qualified for Vedic sacraments etc. must undergo such sacraments described as Consecration because they are propitiations of the Lord, does not hold good.

For such statements as agnavaishnavam.. 201 which enjoin the sacrament of consecration upon those qualified for Initiation etc. as accessory to the ritual of the jyotiṣṭoma etc. do not therefore become non-Vedic.

▼ Buitenen - Notes

▼ Buitenen

[[78]]

Or if the ground for its non-Vedic character is the injunction of sacraments other than the Vedic ones, the ground is inappropriate, because of the circular argument it involves: only if the non-Vedic character of Pancarātra Sastra is proved, it is proved that these sacraments are really different;

and if the latter is proved, it is proved that Pañcaratra Sastra is non-Vedic.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

किञ्च समस्त-वैदिक-संस्कारेभ्यः संस्कारान्तरत्वं वा हेतुः;

▼ Buitenen

Moreover, the ground is either that the Pancarātra sacraments are different from all Vedic sacraments, or that they are different from some Vedic sacraments.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

न तावद् अनन्तरः कल्पः
उपनयनादि-संस्कारस्यापि चौलादि-संस्कारात् संस्कारान्तरत्वेनावैदिकत्व-प्रसङ्गात्,

▼ Buitenen

Not the latter alternative, for this would mean that the sacrament of Initiation etc. is non-Vedic because it is different from the sacrament of Tonsure;

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

न चान्त्यः कल्पः - उक्त-दोषानतिवृत्ते;
न ह्य उपनयनं समस्त-वैदिक-संस्कारेभ्यः संस्कारान्तरम्।

पञ्च-रात्र-शास्त्रस्यापि वैदिकत्वाद् इत्य् उक्तम् एव।

▼ Buitenen

nor the first alternative, because it does not escape the said defect?
for the sacrament of Initiation is not different from all Vedic sacraments;

and we have said that the difference (of Pañcarātra sacraments) from Vedic sacraments is disproved on the ground that Pañcarātra Sastra is Vedic.

93. The objection (supra § 17) that Pancarātra is outside the Veda, because like the Pasupata Tantra it is not included among the fourteen sciences which are held to be authoritative of dharma, would also have an occasional application to the texts of the Bharata and Rāmāyaṇa composed by Dvaiapayana and Valmiki.

This Samhita thus clarifies that the four-fold manifestation of the Supreme Lord Vasudeva, as Sankarṣaṇa, Pradyumna and Aniruddha is for the welfare of the creation, by facilitating mental concentration in different degrees for aspirants of different capacities. This four-fold manifestation has got a purpose, says the Sattvata Samhitā, namely, facilitating the worship by the four castes, Brāhmaṇa, Kṣatriya, Vaiśya and Sūdra, respectively. It is only the Brāhmaṇa that is entitled to worship all these four manifestations of God, viz., Vasudeva, Sankarsana, Pradyumna and Aniruddha. For the remaining castes, however, only particular forms of God are ordained for worship For further details, see the Sättvata Samhitā ch. VII.

The fact that the four manifestations of the Lord are designed by the Ford Himself to facilitate the worship by the four different castes is briefly set both by the Pauskara Samhita (ch. 38. śl. 4a, 5a), which Rāmānuja quotes in his SribhaSya under II. ii. 41, p. 829-

Besides, the Author of the Sūtras has already discarded the śruti, smṛti and profane views concerning the origination and reabsorption of the individual soul in the sūtra carācaravyapāśrayas tu syāt tadvyapadeśo bhāktas tadbhāvabhāvitvāt.²¹¹

† Here Yamuna points out the discrepancy in Sankara's division of the Brahmasutra into Adhikaraṇas. According to Sankara, the aphorism "cara- caravyapāśrayastu " etc., forms another topic (adhikarana). He argues that the origination of the jīva is not of primary significance. But according to Yamuna, this point has already been clarified by the sutra- "nātmā śruteḥ", etc., so much so that the sutra "caracara" etc., becomes redundant and thus becomes "anadhikaraṇīya", that is to say that it does not deserve treatment as a separate topic.

the non-existent doctrine of the soul's origination,

99. The meaning of the Sūtras is this. First the Author has set forth that the doctrines of Kapila, Kaśyapa, Buddha, Jina and Paśupati, who oppose the Author's own accepted doctrine, are unnatural²¹⁷ because they conflict with Revelation and logic.

217: In BrS., 2,2.

Now, in order to remove the suspicion that the Pancarātra Tantras (which are his own accepted doctrine) are equally unnatural with the other doctrines because their usual enumeration on an equal

[[84]]

100. Similarly na ca kartuh karaṇam: Pañcarātra has no validity for the further reason that it is impossible that the instrument, sc. the mind called Pradyumna, originates from the agent, sc. the individual soul called Saṅkarṣaṇa, for the hatchet does not originate from Devadatta.

▼ Buitenen

Or there is this alternative explanation of na ca kartuh karaṇam:

and for the further reason that the instrument does not originate from the agent Saṅkarṣaṇa, since according to the text:

"From it spring the vital air, the mind and all the senses," it is revealed that all instruments really originate from Brahman.

If the alternative view is taken, we have a conflict with Perception, because we see that for instance a pitcher, though it be the instrument of an action of fetching water, yet originates from the agent of such an action, the potter.

▼ Buitenen

In order to remove the suspicion of untruth occasioned by the speaker's character, the word ādi is used to convey the intended meaning that the Tantras are in fact spoken by a trustworthy person.

▼ नरसिंहः

६ The term ādi is from Brahmasūtra II. ii. 41- विज्ञानादिभावे वा तदप्रतिषेधः । आदिशब्देन दोषरहित्यम्, विज्ञानशब्देन गुणसाहित्यं चामिप्रेतम् ।

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

तस्मिन् विभ्रम-विप्रलभ्न-मुखा दोषा भवेयुः कथम् ॥ (4)

▼ Buitenen

Consequently the meaning is this: He always has direct knowledge of the entire world by virtue of the omniscience which is part of His nature; He bestows man's wishes upon him, when He is satisfied—and he is satisfied by meditation alone; Him the experts in the Veda describe as eternally satisfied in all His desires: how then can there be defects in Him like error, deceit etc.?

▼ नरसिंहः

Cf. The following verse, which, according to tradition, forms the opening verse of Nāthamuni's Nyāyatattva-

" यो वेति युगपत् सर्व प्रत्यक्षेण सदा स्वतः ।
तं प्रणम्य हरिं शास्त्रं

▼ Buitenen

104. The 'impossibility of origination,' which has been stated in the first two Sūtras, is thereupon denied for Sañkarṣaṇa and the other forms of God in the sūtra vipratiṣedhāt.

पूर्व जीव-मन-आदीनाम् उत्पत्तिर् न सम्भवतीत्य् अस्य पूर्वपक्षस्य समाधानम् उक्तम् ।

▼ Buitenen

This means either; "Because there is conflict with the Bhagavān's perception which is inferred through Pañcaratra;" or "Because there is conflict with Śruti which is inferred from the same Tradition."

[[87]]

▼ नरसिंहः

Brahmasutra II.ii. 42.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

पञ्च-रात्र-श्रुत्योर् अ-सन्तम् अपि विरोधं कृत्वा
अत्र चित्यन्ते । (4)

▼ Buitenen

105. Or there is another interpretation: since the Sūtras intend to illustrate the rules of exegesis, the author first assumes that there is a conflict between Śruti and Pañcaratra, though in fact there is no such conflict, and then reasons this out as follows:

पूर्व-पक्षः④

उत्पत्त्य-असम्भवात् पाञ्चरात्राप्रामाण्यम्⑤

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

तथा -

सति वेदाविरुद्धत्वे किन् नु मन्व-आदि-वाक्यवत् ।
अ-प्रमाणम् इदं शास्त्रं
प्रमाणं वेति संशये ...॥

▼ Buitenen

suppose that Pañcaratra is in conflict with the veda, is this śāstra then, like the statements of Manu etc., valid or invalid?

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

अप्रमाणं (वेद-)विरुद्धार्थ-प्रमित्य-उत्पत्त्य-अ-सम्भवात् ।
(पूर्वोक्त-)अ-सम्भवश्च (सृत्य-अन्तरवत्) सापेक्ष-(वेदवत्→)निरपेक्षत्व-हेतुकः ॥

▼ Buitenen

This question is thereupon answered: "It is invalid, because of the impossibility of the origination of valid knowledge concerning a conflicting sense; and this impossibility itself is proved on the ground that there is independence of something that is dependent."

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

यावद् धि

सापेक्षं पञ्च-रात्र-स्मरणं

तद्-अर्थस्यान्यथा परिच्छेदात्

तद्-विरुद्धायाः प्रमितेर् "उत्पत्त्य-असम्भवात्" ।

▼ Buitenen

Thus the sūtra utpattyasam̄bhavāt means:

"because it is impossible that a valid knowledge originates, since, as long as the dependent Pañcaratra Tradition does not start proving the validity of its own sense by establishing the validity of its basis, the cognition which originates from the independent preterpersonal scripture determines the Tradition's sense as being different, and consequently conflicting with itself.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

तावद्धि पञ्चरात्रस्य

प्रत्यक्ष-शास्त्र-शस्त्रेण
यावन् मूलं न लूयते ॥ (4)

▼ Buitenen

For Pāñcarātra conveys that scripture is its basis only as long as the sword of direct scripture does not cut its root.

▼ नरसिंहः

For a discussion on the validity of smṛtis when they are in opposition to more powerful means of knowledge, see Tantravārtika under Iii 3, pp. 82-103. Cf. ibid. p. 87-ननु कथं वेदा वा निरपेक्षा?

यावता तेषाम् अपि भगवद्-अनुभव-सापेक्षम् एव प्रमाणत्वं - (भगवतः) तत् (=वेद) कारणत्वात्।

▼ Buitenen

106. OBJECTION. But why should the Vedas themselves be independent, since their validity, too, depends on the direct cognition of the Bhagavān, because this cognition is their cause?221

221: cf. supra § 18.

▼ Buitenen

$ This is the contention of the Naiyāyika. He does not accept the "apauruṣeyatva" of the Vedas. They, according to him, are dependent upon the Supreme Being, like the Pāñcarātrāgamas, for their validity, so much so they too are "pauruṣeya", i.e., composed by the Divine Person. This is the point on which Yamuna differs from the Naiyayika. The aphorism "na ca kartuh harapum" (Brahmasūtra II. ii. 40) is ingeniously interpreted by Yāmuna to elude the above concept of the Logician, and to establish the "apauruṣe- vatva" or the revealed character of the Vedas.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

यथैव हि पञ्च-रात्र-स्मृतयः तद्-अनुभव-सापेक्षाः, एवं वेदा अपि

इति

▼ Buitenen

Just as the Pāñcarātra Traditions are dependent on His cognition, so are the Vedas too dependent on His cognition.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

▼ Buitenen

REFUTATION. To refute this view, the statement is made:

na ca kartuh karanam:

The Vedas are not the product of a maker, i.e. the Bhagavān.

Karaṇa here in the sense of "things that are made or produced", by the rule "suffix lyuṭ" in the sense of the object of the action. This then means that the Vedas are preterhuman.

222: Karmaṇi Lyuṭ Pāṇini.

i.e. non-rejection of the origination of valid knowledge (namely, even when partly conflicting, the conflicting statement may be valid optionally),

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः:

असाम्भवद्-भ्रम-विप्रलभ्य-- भगवद्-अनुभवमूलत्वात्, "विज्ञानादि-भावे" ।

▼ Buitenen

because it is based upon the direct cognition of the Bhagavān in whom error and deceit are impossible as He is a source of vijñāna (vijñānānādibhāve):

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः:

विज्ञानं विशिष्टं ज्ञानम् - असाम्भवत्सखलनम् इति यावत्,

▼ Buitenen

Vijñāna means "knowledge par excellence in which no mistake is possible.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः:

सांसारिकत्त्वेनासार्वज्यात्
अनवाप्तन्-अकामत्वाच् च
सम्भाव्यमान-विविध-विप्लवं ज्ञानम्,

▼ Buitenen

For since all other authors of Dharmaśāstras are not omniscient, as they are involved in samsāra, and since therefore they are also not entirely self-sufficient, various lapses are conceivable in their knowledge.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

▼ Buitenen

Whereas in the case of the Bhagavān, whose supremacy is natural and unlimited, His knowledge is the immediate insight in all dharma and adharma, which is natural to Him and true, as is known from hundreds of śruti; it is this knowledge which in the sūtra is described as vijñāna,

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

| ननु कथं श्रुति-विरुद्धस्य तन्त्रस्य प्रामाण्याभ्युपगमः?

108. OBJECTION. But how can it be assumed that the Tantra, which conflicts with scripture, has validity?

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

तत्प्रामाण्ये हि श्रुत्या सह विकल्पः प्राप्नोति,

▼ Buitenen

For if it is valid,
it becomes optional beside 89 scripture;

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

| (पञ्चरात्रेण) विकल्पश्च अष्ट-दोष-दुष्टः,

▼ Buitenen

and optionality is deficient in the case of the Tantras by eight defects.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

| स च क्वचिद् अन्यतर-परित्याग-कारणाभावाद् अगत्या उभ्यनुज्ञायते,
यथा "त्रीहिभिर् यजेत् यवैर् यजेत्" इति,

▼ Buitenen

Option is assumed when there is no invariable rule that something should be such and not otherwise, because there is no reason to reject, in one case or another, an alternative statement;
for instance: "He must sacrifice with rice," beside "he must sacrifice with barley."

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

न हि तत्रान्यतरद् अपहर्तु शक्यम् - उभयोर् अप्य् अन्-अपेक्षत्वाविशेषत्वात् ।

▼ Buitenen

In the latter case it is impossible to eliminate one or the other because both neither of these statements is characterized by independence.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः:

न चैवम् अपि पञ्च-रात्र-श्रुत्योर् विकल्पेन भवितव्यम् अतुल्यत्वात्,

▼ Buitenen

In the former case, however, there can be no such option between scripture and Pañcarātra, because the two are not equal;

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः:

निरपेक्षं हि वैदिकं वचनं - अपौरुषेयत्वात्, सापेक्षं च पञ्च-रात्र-वचनम् इति।
कथम् अनयोर् विकल्पः?

▼ Buitenen

for the Vedic statement is independent, because it is preterhuman, whereas the Pañcaratra statement is dependent.
So how can they be alternatives and optional?

इतर-निरपेक्षता③

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः:

श्रूयतां - पञ्च-रात्र-शास्त्रस्यापि निरपेक्षत्वाद् एव (विकल्पत्वम्)।

▼ Buitenen

109. REFUTATION. Listen: because Pañcarātra too is independent.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

कथनु पौरुषेयस्य
वचसो निरपेक्षता ।

▼ Buitenen

OBJECTION. How can a statement deriving from a person be independent?

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

पुम्-अर्थत्वाय वा तत्र

▼ Buitenen

REFUTATION.

Let us ask the logician to explain this-must dependence on something else be assumed for a statement to be informative, to give positive certainty,
or to state the truth about its content, or to serve a purpose of human importance?
All four are impossible.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

न खलु "चक्रवर्त्य-उपचारेण भगवन्तं समर्चयेद्" इतीदं वचनं श्रूयमाणं

बोधकत्वाय किञ्चिद् अपेक्षते, अन्यत्र व्युत्पत्ति-ग्रहणात्

▼ Buitenen

When the statement is heard,

"One must worship the Bhagavan with the attendance due an emperor," (not identified) nothing else is required for this statement to be informative, because the meaning of the words has already become known from other contexts.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

न च तावता सापेक्षत्वेन दौर्बल्यं - श्रुताव् अपि दौर्बल्य-प्रसङ्गात् । (4)

▼ Buitenen

Nor does this small measure of dependence prove the weakness of the statement's [[90]] validity, for the same weakness would follow for śruthi too.

▼ Buitenen - Notes

in order to understand any statement, one must first know the meaning of the words that compose it; this may be called dependence, so that to this extent any statement is dependent for its informativeness on other and prior knowledge; but this must also apply to Vedic statements.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

नापि निश्चय-जननाय,
न हि "अर्चयेद्" इत्य् एतत् "अर्चयेन् न वे"ति संशयितं प्रत्ययम् उत्पादयति - व्युत्पत्ति-प्रतिपत्ति-व्याकोप-प्रसङ्गात् ।

▼ Buitenen

Nor is anything else required for the statement to give positive certainty; for the statement "One must worship...." does not occasion doubt whether one must or must not worship, since that would entail a negation of the direct declaration of the real sense.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

नापि यथार्थत्वाय,
न ह्य उत्पन्नं ज्ञानं
स्व-कारण-व्यतिरेकेण यथार्थत्वाय अपरम् अपेक्षते -
(वेद-वाक्य-??)गुणतः प्रामाण्यस्यायुक्तत्वात्, (गुणत्व-)अनभ्युपगमाच् च ।

▼ Buitenen

Nor is anything required for the statement to be true to the facts, for the knowledge produced by the statement does not require anything outside its own cause²²⁶ to be true to the facts, because secondary validity is inappropriate and not admitted.

▼ Buitenen - Notes

If the cause (here: God) is above suspicion, the statement will be accurate.

gunataḥ prāmāṇyasyājuktateūd anabhjupagamāe; my understanding is that a statement has its validity by itself, and no secondary validity in the sense that its content must first be validated by some other means.

The validity itself must be proved (namely by the character of the personal author or by its preterpersonal origin), but once proved, the statement itself is valid.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

न च पुरुषार्थत्वाय परापेक्षा - शास्त्र-शरीर-पर्यालोचनाद् एव तद्-सिद्धेः,

▼ Buitenen

Nor is it necessary for the statement to be dependent on something else in order to serve a purpose of human importance, for the proof of this purpose follows from a consideration of the entire body of doctrine.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः:

इह हि यथोक्तं संस्कारवतां शास्त्र-श्रवणात् तद्-अर्थ-ज्ञानं,
ततस् तद्-अर्थं पाज्चकालिकानुष्ठानम्, ततो निरतिशय-संपत्-प्राप्तिर् इति शास्त्राद् एवावगम्यते ।

▼ Buitenen

In this case, those who have undergone the afore-mentioned sacraments have knowledge of the content of the statement when they have heard the doctrine, and hence they perform the "five-times-a-day" rites ([228]: Vaisnava rite observed five times a day: pañcakálika.), which form this content, and hence they attain to supreme perfection; this is learnt solely from the Sastra itself.

आप्ति-निश्चयो नापेक्षितः④

▼ Buitenen

110. Or if the objection is raised that, granted the self-validity of Pañcaratra, this validity is not complete as long as it has not been made certain that there are no defects, after it has been made certain that the speaker is reliable,-

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

तद् असत्,
न हि दोषाभाव-ज्ञानं प्रामाण्यं निष्पादयति
निर्दोष-ज्ञान-कारणाद् एव तद्-उत्पत्तेः । (4)

▼ Buitenen

I reply that this view is not correct; knowledge that there are no defects does not completely establish validity,
since the validity arises from the cause itself of defectless knowledge
and not from the defectlessness of this knowledge.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

न च निर्दोषत्वायाप्तत्वादि-गुण-निश्चयः -
सत्ता-मात्रेण तत्-सिद्धेः,

▼ Buitenen

[[91]] 111. Nor is positive certainty about such of the speaker's qualities as his reliability required for his statement to be defectless, because the statement's defectlessness is proved solely by its being defectless.

यथाह वार्तिककारः -

▼ Buitenen

As the Author of the Varttika declares,

"Then the qualities (of the speaker) do not exert any influence (on the validity of his statement) because (its defectlessness) is already known."229

The same Author also shows that, even when there is certainty about its defectlessness, the existence of qualities (like reliability in the speaker) is helpful:

"When defectlessness is known, they are helpful by merely existing."

because action proceeds on the basis of recollection and desire.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

▼ Buitenen

Moreover, in the case of the self-valid Vedas, too, we find this same dependence in that their validity would not be completely established as long as there were no certainty of their defectlessness after the certainty about the non-existence of their author.

▼ Buitenen

112. OBJECTION. But when the non-existence of their author is proved without effort by the non-apprehension of what ought to be there, the question of the non-validity does not arise for the Veda, for defects are impossible without something or someone in which they could reside.

▼ Buitenen

REFUTATION. Why, in the case of Pañcarátra too no question can arise about its validity, since the absence of defects is easily proved by the fact that the omniscient and omnipotent God is its speaker; so the argument is the same.

▼ Buitenen

In other words, in both cases of self-validity there is positive certainty that there are no defects; in the case of the Veda because there is positive certainty that no person is involved who could possess these defects; in the case of Pañcarātra because there is positive certainty that its speaker possesses virtues which preclude defects.

The independent cognition that some substance is silver while in reality it is nacre is invalidated by the cognition: "This is not silver:" this cognition itself is considered as dependent.

([233]: namely, because it requires another cognition in order to be denied.)

The cognition "This is that flame," is found to be invalidated by the inferential cognition that arises from the disappearance of oil";

the latter cognition itself is dependent because it arises from a sense-perception.

▼ Buitenen - Note

[234]: namely, in the example of the burning lamp: is it the same flame that burns at six o'clock and at seven o'clock? We don't see the flame change or be succeeded by another flame. Only inference shows that since there is a different amount of oil in the lamp at different times, it is different oil that is burning as a flame, so that the flame is really different. The sense perception is of the varying amounts of oil.

in our present case there is no such susceptibility either of Scripture or of Pañcaratra.

Besides, we could also raise the question whether He did not wish to deceive people, because He is omnipotent, and thus created in the beginning the Vedas themselves with false meanings, which are also suprasensible, took away from Brahma etc. also the power of recollecting that He was the creator of the Vedas, and from then onward set in motion the transmission of Vedic instruction until the present day:
how can we be sure about it?

▼ Buitenen - Note

First of all, if "outside the Veda" means "different from the Veda," and "accepted" means "learnt", then the ground proves to be occasional, since it equally applies to the Vedas themselves : the Vedic statements, which are valid, are "learnt" by members of the three estates, which themselves are "different from the Veda."

▼ Buitenen

If "outside the Veda" is taken to mean "performing forbidden acts," the ground has an occasional application to those statements of the Veda which enjoin expiatory ceremonies. ([241]: Manusmrti, 8.107.)

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

▼ Buitenen

For since statements enjoining expiations, e.g. "One must sacrifice with the kusmanda verses," whose content is to be "learnt", "known" and "observed," by those who perform forbidden acts, are authoritative, it would follow that the ground "because they are accepted by people outside the Veda" is occasional,²⁴²

▼ Buitenen - Notes

People who do prohibited acts follow Vedic expiations; but if acceptance by people who commit forbidden acts is sufficient to deny the validity of what they accept, this means that the validity of the Veda would be denied.

Now, the first alternative cannot be adopted,

Otherwise cāndālas etc. would do no wrong

▼ Buitenen

It follows that everybody is qualified to these Vedic rites, 243 which shows that the ground is not proved and that the illustration falls short of the means of proof.

▼ Buitenen

in one sense.

For the observance of a prohibition is as much a ritual action as the observance of an injunction.

अनाधिकार एकदेशो④

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

नापि कतिपय-वैदिक-कर्मान्धिकारिभिर् गृहीतत्वाद् अ-प्रामाण्यं समस्त-वेद-वाक्यानाम् अप्रामाण्य-प्रसङ्गात्,

▼ Buitenen

Nor can the second alternative be adopted that the Tantras are invalid because they are accepted by people who are unqualified for certain Vedic rites, because that would entail the conclusion that all Vedic statements are invalid.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

अस्ति हि सर्वेषां कतिपय-वैदिक-कर्मनधिकारः,
ब्राह्मणस्येव राज-सूये,
राजन्यस्येव सोम-पाने, (5)

▼ Buitenen

For every man has some Vedic rites for which he is not qualified:
the brahmin is not qualified for the Royal Consecration,
the ksatriya not for the ritual drinking of soma.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

अतो व्यवस्थित-वणाधिकारि-गृहीत-वेद-वचनैर् अनैकान्तिको हेतुः, अ-प्रयोजकश्च ।

▼ Buitenen

Consequently, this ground has an occasional application to the Vedic statements, which are accepted by qualified persons belonging to the three estates, and is therefore inconclusive.

▼ Buitenen

As to the illustration,
the view that heaven is attained by worshipping a caitya is not invalidated by its being accepted by heretics, but by the deficiency of its cause, [[100]]

श्रेयस्-परिग्रहः③

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

उक्तश्च वैदिक-समस्तास्तिक-प्रवर-भृगु-भरद्वाज-द्वैपायन-प्रभृति-मह-र्षि-जन-परिग्रहः,

119. We have already said that Pancarâtra has been accepted by the Vedic, and among all orthodox pre-eminent, sages Bhrgu, Bharadvâja, Dvaipâyana etc.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

▼ Buitenen

And in the present day we can also observe how exemplary persons of great learning, believing that these rites are most effective in attaining bliss, perform the rites of temple-building, erection of idols, prostration, circumambulation and particular festival ceremonies, just as they perform the agnihotra and other rituals enjoined directly by Scripture.

And it is improper to maintain that their conduct has no foundation, for that would entail that such smārta rites as crepuscular worship, astaka etc., are similarly without foundation.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

उक्तं च शिष्टाचारस्य प्रामाण्यम् -

▼ Buitenen

It has been said that the conduct of exemplary people is authoritative,²⁶ and also that even when they do not know the cause of their custom, they do know what is proper custom.

भागवत-परिग्रहे इदोषः③

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

(5)

▼ Buitenen

120. If the ground for the invalidity of Pañcaratra is that it is accepted by Bhagavatas, well, then the scriptural statements of the Ekayana Sakha and the Vājasaneyaka sakhas and the means of knowledge Perception, Inference etc., would also be invalid since the Bhagavatas accept those too!

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

अथ "तैर् एव परिगृहीतत्वाद्" इति (अग्रामाण्ये) हेतुः तद्-असाधारणानैकान्तिकम्, असिद्धज्ञ ।

▼ Buitenen

This same ground, moreover, namely that Pañcarātra is invalid because it is accepted by the Bhagavatas, suffers from two defects; it is both specially-occasional and unproved.²⁴⁹

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

किमिति वा तत्परिग्रहादप्रामाण्यम्?

▼ Buitenen

Why is Pañcarātra rendered invalid by their acceptance?

नात्रैवर्णिकत्वात्④

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

▼ Buitenen

If it is because they do not belong to the three estates, then the Atharvanic statements whose content is accepted and observed by rathakaras, nisadas and other groups which do not belong to the three estates (Statements like "The rathakara must add fuel,"

"With [[101]] that he must sacrifice for the chief of the Niṣādas," etc.) would also be invalid.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

अस्तुवाऽत्रैवर्णिक-परिग्रहोऽप्रामाण्य-हेतुः;

▼ Buitenen

Or, be it granted that the acceptance of certain rites by outcastes renders them invalid; yet, in view of the fact that the eminent brahminhood of these Bhagavatas who follow the doctrine of the Bhagavān is evident by all criteria of knowledge, their acceptance of Pañcaratra rather confirms its validity.

१७ भागवत-ब्राह्मण्य-प्रमाणम्②

▼ Buitenen

121. OBJECTION. But when one sees the small sons of the twice-born who wear the customary hairtuft, sacred thread, palasa wood stick and munagrass girdle, one knows, the moment the eyes fall on them, that they are brahmins.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः:

इह वा किम् अहर् अहर् अधीयमान-वाजसनेयकैकायन-शाखान् विलसद्-उपवीतोत्तरीय-शिखा-शालिनोऽध्यापयतो याजयत प्रतिगृह्णतो विदुषः पश्यन्तो ब्राह्मणा इति नावयन्ति ।

▼ Buitenen

REFUTATION. And in our case, when one sees learned people who day after day study the Vajasaneyaka and Ekāyana śākhās, wear prominently their sacred threads, upper garments and hairtufts, impart teaching, sacrifice, receive priestly stipends---does one not instantly know that they are brahmins?

यजनादिभिः③

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः:

न तेभ्यो ब्राह्मण्य निर्णयः,

तद्-भागवतेतर-विप्राणम् अपि समानम् ।

▼ Buitenen

If it be held that outcastes, low-caste people etc., may also illegitimately sacrifice, teach, carry palata sticks etc. and that they behave as though they were legitimate brahmins, and that therefore neither costume nor conduct provides positive certainty that a man is a brahmin, then the same applies to other priests than Bhagavatas.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

अथ सत्य् अपि तेषां क्वचिद् व्यभिचारे,

▼ Buitenen

Or be it granted that there are cases where people illegitimately display the marks of brahminhood; still, [[102]] though there may be doubt about the legitimacy of these marks in others because of their resemblance to pretenders (just as when there is a doubt that one may be mistaken about real silver too because one has mistaken nacre for silver), then there can be certainty of their being genuine brahmins in all cases when no misapprehension occurs, because otherwise doubt would conflict with Perception and lead to infinite regress.

गोत्रतः③

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

अथ मतम्

तद् भागवतानाम् अपि समानम्

▼ Buitenen

122. Or if it be held that the others are genuine brahmins because they recollect those gotras which are peculiar to brahmins, the same applies to the Bhagavatas;

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः:

स्मरन्ति हि भागवताः -

वयं भारद्वाजाः वयं काश्यपाः वयं गौतमाः वयमौषगवा इति ।

▼ Buitenen

for the Bhagavatas have the tradition: "We are descendants of Bharadvaja, of Kasyapa, of Gotama, of Upagava."

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः:

न चेदं गोत्रस्मरणं निर्मूलं सामयिकं (आधुनिकम्) वा

सर्वगोत्रस्मरणानां तथाभावप्रसङ्गात् । (4)

▼ Buitenen

Nor is this recollection or tradition of gotras unfounded or merely contemporary, for the same can be argued for all tradition of gotras.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः:

संभाव्यमान-दोषत्वाद्

वंशानां यदि संशयः ।

तद्-ब्राह्मण्ये ततो लोकं

▼ Buitenen

If there were doubt about descent since error could conceivably occur, this would confuse the whole world about the authenticity of their brahminhood.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

तथा हि ।

जननी-जार-सन्देह-जातश् चण्डाल-संशयः ।
निर्विशङ्कः कथं वेदम्

▼ Buitenen

After all, anyone may fear that he really is a candala if he suspects his mother of having had a lover; and how, my excellent opponent, can you be quite sure yourself that your birth entitled you to Veda-study?

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

तेन भागवतानाम् अ-विच्छिन्न-परम्-परा-प्राप्त--विचित्र-गोत्र-स्मरण--पर्यवस्थापितं
ब्राह्मण्यम् अनपोदितम् आस्ते
इति न भागवतानाम् अन्येषाज्य ब्राह्मण्ये कश्चिद् विशेषः ।

▼ Buitenen

Therefore if the brahminhood of Bhagavatas, which is completely established by the recollection of the various gotras which has been passed on in uninterrupted transmission, stands unchallenged,

then there is no difference whatever in this between the brahminhood of Bhagavatas and of others.

▼ Buitenen

123. Further, if some who believe in the Supreme Person are monotheists and others who believe in [[103]] petty godlings are polytheists, is then the same authority stated for the brahminhood of the ones as well as of the others,

▼ राममिश्रशास्त्री

▼ Buitenen

If this is the question, then listen:
there remains a criterion to determine brahminhood in either case, either Perception, or Inference, or Circumstantial-Implication.

प्रत्यक्षे शङ्का④

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

ननु कथं प्रत्यक्षं ब्राह्मण्यमवगमयति,

▼ Buitenen

124. OBJECTION. But how can Perception convey that they are brahmins?

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

न हि प्रथमाक्ष-सन्निपात-समनन्तरम्
अ-दृष्ट-पूर्व-विप्र-क्षत्र-समान-वयो-वेष- पिण्ड-द्वय-सन्निधाव अज-गज-महिषादि-विशेषवद्
"अयं ब्राह्मणः", "अयं क्षत्रिय"
इति विभागेन प्रतिपद्यामहे ।

▼ Buitenen

For when we are close to two individuals whom we have not seen before, one a brahmin, the other a ksatriya, of the same age and the same appearance, we do not immediately observe the distinction that one is a brahmin and the other a ksatriya in the same way as we instantly observe the differentness of a goat, an elephant, a buffalo etc.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

न च

(पूर्वानुभव-साहित्ये इष्य अनवस्था-दोषेणानुपपत्तेः ।)

▼ Buitenen

Nor is it proper to maintain that the visual sense conveys the brahminhood of a nearby individual in dependence on our recollection of his father's brahminhood etc.; for that recollection itself is impossible without a previous immediate cognition, just as the recollection of the son of a sterile mother is impossible.

अनुमाने शङ्का④

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

न चानुमानात् - तत्-प्रतिबद्ध-लिङ्गादर्शनात् ।

▼ Buitenen

Nor can we know from Inference that a man is a brahmin, for we do not find a concomitant mark.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

न च शम-दम-तपश्-शौचादयो ब्राह्मण्ये लिङ्गम्,
तेषां ब्राह्मणेन सता संपाद्यत्वाद् व्यभिचाराच् च ।

▼ Buitenen

And such qualities as tranquillity, self-restraint, austerity, purity etc., cannot be taken as marks of brahminhood, because they are available only in the case of a good brahmin and because they are not exclusively confined to brahmans.

अर्थापत्तौ शङ्का④

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

न चार्थाप्रत्या ब्राह्मण्य-निर्णयः, अनुपपत्त्य-अभावात्

▼ Buitenen

Nor can Circumstantial-Implication furnish proof of brahminhood,
because it is not lacking in reason

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

न च वसन्ते ब्राह्मणोऽग्नीन् आदधीत
इत्य-आदि-वाक्यार्थानुपपत्त्या ब्राह्मण्यनिर्णयः, ब्राह्मण्यादिपदार्थावगमपूर्वकत्वात् तद्वाक्यार्थावगमस्य,

▼ Buitenen

[[104]]
and the fact that the sentence-meaning of the statement,
"In spring the brahmin must add fuel to the fire,"
is otherwise unestablished does not therefore by Circumstantial-Implication furnish proof that a man is a brahmin; for knowledge of that sentence-meaning presupposes knowledge of the word-meaning of brahminhood etc.

प्रत्यक्षम्④

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

नायं दोषः,

▼ Buitenen

125. REFUTATION. All this does not make for a defect in my argument.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

There is no invariable rule that sense and object and not otherwise.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

यद् एवेन्द्रिय-व्यापारानुवृत्तौ सत्याम्

▼ Buitenen

Perception is that which illuminates the unmanifest while there is continuity of the operation of the senses.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

तथा च ब्राह्मण्यम् इति - तद् अपि प्रत्यक्षम्, (5)

▼ Buitenen

Thus there can be Perception of brahminhood;

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

▼ Buitenen

for when we keep our eyes open we note, immediately upon observing the particular differentiae of the genus brahminhood,
that the brahminhood is quite clearly noticeable in those who belong to the families of the different gotras-Vasistha, Kasyapiya Sathamarṣaṇa etc.--, who are pure in their conduct, and who display the sacred thread, upper cloth, hairtuft and munja peculiarities of genus.

every case the sense becomes the cause of the rise of determination of sense-object when favoured by the accompanying circumstances of place, time, configuration etc.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

It is the natural function of the sense-organ as such to relate itself to these accompanying circumstances.

▼ Buitenen

As the author says:

"No organ of knowledge, whether in Veda or in ordinary process, becomes efficacious in determining the object that is to be realized through the accompanying circumstances unless it is favoured by these circumstances.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

ततश्च सन्तति-स्मृत्या

▼ Buitenen

[[105]]

Consequently the visual sense, when favoured by the recollection of genus, gives knowledge of brahminhood without the object giving up its perceptuality.

तथा च दृश्यते नाना

So it is evident that the visual sense can be the instrument of knowledge of genus in dependence on a variety of accompanying factors.

It has been contended that when we see two individuals of the same age and appearance, the difference between the two does not this.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

The difference between nacre and silver, which are similar in appearance and configuration, may not be immediately visible, yet that does not mean that their difference is not visible at another time; and the same holds for the difference between brahmin, kṣatriya and vaisya.

[[106]]

It has been said often that it applies to those who possess recollection of gotra, Vedic ancestry etc.; let us not start discussing this question again, or we must repeat our old argument:

it is established that the Bhagavatas are brahmins, because they possess gotra etc.

▼ Buitenen

To this we reply:

precisely what do we learn from these two statements?

Is there a simple connection of names, or must an invariable rule be stated ?

[254]: ie., is the same name used for several groups or only one?

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

▼ Buitenen

In It is impossible to make it a rule that the words Bhagavata and Satvata denote a vaiśya vratya, for that is not known from the text, and it involves overextension.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

श्रुत-हान्य-अश्रुत-कल्पना-प्रसङ्गात्।

▼ Buitenen

In the statement, "the fifth one, Satvata," we do not find a denial that the words Bhagavata and Satvata denote other meanings, for that would mean ignoring the explicit and inventing the unstated.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

इह हि व्रात्य-वैश्यान्वय-जन्मा यः पञ्चमः

▼ Buitenen

In our statement the fifth one, who is born from an vaisya vratya,
is understood to bear the name of Satvata:
"The fifth one, Sarvata...", since the word 'fifth' is the operative term as it is mentioned first.

For when the stated subject (e.g. a mountain) is possessed of fire, the predicated fire does not necessarily possess smoke.²⁵⁵

255. The argument is: if S is P, then P is not therefore S.

The example is 'parvato 'gnimin dhumavattvāt if we interchange S and P, we get parvato dhumavin agnimattvāt, but this is not true, for though there is no fireless smoke, there is smokeless fire.
Similarly here: the fifth may be a sitvata or a vaidya vratya, but being the fifth does not make the sitvata a vaidya vratya,

127. If it be argued that since these two words also may denote another caste (namely of the vaisya vratyas), then the mere fact that certain brahmins are denoted by these words proves that these brahmins belong to that caste, even though they follow the doctrine of the Bbagavan, it would also follow that, since we find the collocated word acaryas also used to denote the issue of a lowly vaisya, therefore an eminent brahmin who is an acarya imparting teaching of the Veda with its ancillae and its esoteric teachings is thereby denoted as being a vaisya vratya!

If, on the other hand, even though a true brahmin is denoted by the word ācārya which dea vratya, there still can be no suspicion that he actually is a vratya, because there is positive certainty of his brahminhood which is clearly proved by other means of knowledge, and because it is possible that the word acarya is used figuratively (ācārya as one who "accumulates"—acinoti the pupil's knowledge) for a Brahmin teacher, then in our case, too, the same argument can be made, namely thus: even though they are denoted by the terms Satvata and Bhagavata, which denote another caste, yet there can rise no suspicion that they actually are vratyas, because the brahminhood of these followers of the Bhagavan's doctrine is firmly known from the recollection of completely obvious clans, Vedic ancestry etc., and because it is possible that the terms Sātvata and Bhāgavata have a figurative denotation of sattva-vat and bhaga-vat.

▼ Buitenen

In other words,

the fact that the same word denotes both classes of people does not mean that therefore both belong to one and the same caste,

▼ Buitenen

We find that the word hari also means 'frog.' Does it follow that a lion is a frog because both are denoted by the same word? Then word itself would be horned, since 'word' is denoted by gau !"

then it is not right to assume a non-composite denotation.

For he who theorizes that the words satvata and bhagavata have their conventional meaning in denoting someone born from a vaisya vrata,

must also theorize that the words sattvat and bhagarut, which are the stem and the taddhita suffix built on the stem,²⁶¹ have a different meaning in a sentence like, "having observed the satvata rules, a man becomes a Bhagavata because of the merits he has won in a previous existence."²⁶²

[261]: taddhita suffix, cf. Panini.

[262]: "conventionally the two words are synonymous, 'etymologically' they have different meanings.

▼ Buitenen

This goes to prove the assumption that in this case the word may have a double meaning by etymology alone, because it is possible for it to be used in the sense of "issue of a vaisya vrत्या."

And it is possible that those vrत्यas too, despite the fact that they fail to [[109]] worship the Bhagavan directly, yet may be denoted by the words satvata and bhagavata, because of their work discipline of cleaning up Vasudeva's temple, clearing away the bali offerings, guarding the idol etc., for it is taught that the can suffix may occur in the sense of a simple relation, "this is of that." (263, Panini.)

129. Herewith is also rejected the contention that the Bhāgavatas are vratyas because they would have the same profession.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

अन्यद् एव हि देवायतन-शोधन--बलि-निर्हरण--प्रतिमासंरक्षणादिकम्

▼ Buitenen

For it is one thing to clean the temple, clear away the bali offerings, guard the idol,

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

▼ Buitenen

and quite another thing to perform the variety of actions that are daily observed by the Bhagavatas: the cleaning of the way to the idol approaching, the preparation for worship, offering, daily study, and meditation.

It is as it is in the case of the jyotistoma etc.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

तथैव ज्योतिषोमे -

▼ Buitenen

In the jyotistoma, too, a carpenter has a task in making the various receptacles, soma-cups, soma-decanters, ladles etc., while the officiating priests have their tasks in reciting various different mantra recitations, representing the deity, pressing of the soma etc.

(5)

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

न च तावता तेषां तक्षणाज् चैक-जातित्व-संशयः,

▼ Buitenen

So here, too, there is a difference between those who perform the pañcakālikā ritual, which is established by the Bhagavan's doctrine, and the low-caste people who do the cleaning-up of the temple and are also called temple-guards.

130. Further, the contention that, if the words bhāgavata and satvata have their etymological meaning, this entails that the word rathakara in the injunction the "rathakara must build a fire" desomeone belonging to the three varṇas on account of its etymology of chariot-making,²⁶⁸ is not correct.

[268]: For the word means etymologically "maker of chariots, carts." [269]: not identified.

▼ Buitenen

For in the case of rathakāra

it is correct that the term refers to someone belonging to the three varṇas, because otherwise the springtime etc., which are given in the statement on the origin of this fire-building, would be invalidated, and because usages of a word in the sense of different castes, which is given in the mantra would be invalidated.

nevertheless, since, on Śaṅkha's evidence that so that the rathakāra is born from an anuloma marriage of a kṣatriya man and a vaiśya woman,²⁶⁵

the rathakāra is not forbidden to perform rites of sacrificing, fire-building and initiation,²⁶⁶

265: supra § 15.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

there is no conflict of qualification for rites that can only be realized through knowledge of the Veda,²⁶⁷

and since the word rathakāra (in its etymological meaning) is inappropriate for members of the three varṇas because they are forbidden to follow an artisan's profession, therefore we can only conclude that in both cases different castes are denoted by the term, and so there is no conflict (here).

Moreover, when knowledge of the thing meant by a word is obtained from the denotation of the separate members that compose the word, then the Author of the Sūtras rules out the validity of a denotation in which the meanings of the component members are lost, namely in prokṣaṇīṣv arthaśaṁyogāt. 268

131. The further objection,²⁶⁹ namely why these people should invariably be denoted by the exclusive names of Sāttvata and Bhāgavata, if their brahminhood were the same as that of others, can be answered thus: there is no defect in that, for it is as it is in the case of the names parivrājaka and nigada.

By considering these and a hundred similar smṛti statements we can be sure that living off the deity's treasure and professional pūjā offering of brahmins who go without the sacrament of consecration as established by Pañcaratra renders them sub-Brahmins and devalakas.²⁷⁶

134. As to the statement that the bhāgavatas cannot pass for exemplary persons because they make use of flower and food offerings, which practice is abhorred by exemplary persons, to this we say: what does the śrotriya 277 mean by left-over flowers and leftover food?

277: a Brahman erudite in the Veda and following its observances.

When he takes it only as the flowers and the cakes,278 he is contradicted by all the world, for nobody approves of wasting flowers and cakes.

278: If he does not believe that God is present in the effigy, the offerings are obviously not used and cannot be characterized as left-overs. The priest's avoidance of them would simply amount to sinful waste.(4) and here it is impossible to determine the particularization.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

▼ Buitenen

OBJECTION. Why should it be impossible, since the particularization is that it is forbidden to use food what has been offered up to the deity?

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

▼ Buitenen

REPLY. Are you now accepting the validity of Pañcaratra? For only when one admits that there is a deity present in the idols that are erected with the sacred formulae enjoined by Pañcaratra Tantra can one postulate that the particularization of the prohibition lies in the offering-up to the deity.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

▼ Buitenen

For unless the validity of the Tantra is admitted, how can an idol which is set forth in the Tantra be a deity, and, a fortiori, how can the substance that is offered up for this deity's sake be nirmālya and nivedya,

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

▼ Buitenen

For a deity does not exist by just being a deity; only that deity which is known to be correlated with an oblation on the authority of scriptural testimony is the deity to that oblation;

that is your own doctrine.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

अथ

▼ Buitenen

Or if it be held that something is nirmālya and nivedya because it is admitted by the Pāñcarātrikas that it is offered up to the deity,

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

हन्त तर्हि,

तद्वद् एव पावनत्वम् अङ्गी क्रियताम् ।

▼ Buitenen

well, in that case you must also admit its purity because the Pāñcarātrikas accept also that the utilization of nirmālya and nivedya is perfectly pure.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

अथापावनम् एव तैः (पञ्चरात्र-मोहितैः) पावन-बुद्ध्या परिगृहीतम् इति न तत् प्राशस्त्यम् अङ्गीक्रियते,

▼ Buitenen

Or if you do not accept this peculiar excellence, since in your opinion the Pāñcarātrikas have accepted as pure something that is really impure,

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

हन्त तर्हु अ-देवतैव देवता-बुद्ध्यारोपेण तैः परिगृहीतेति
न तद्-उद्देशेन त्यक्तस्य निर्माल्य-निवेद्य-भावो इङ्गीक्रियताम् । (4)

▼ Buitenen

—well, in that case you must accept it that the substance which is offered up is not really nirmālya and nivedya, since then you opine that the Pañcarātrikas have adopted someone who is not really a deity by mistaking him for a deity!

निगमनम्④

▼ Buitenen

In other words, inasmuch as the offering up abandonment of mere flowers, cakes etc. 289 is not approved, and because it is impossible to particularize the prohibition of utilizing these substances according to the terms of one's own doctrine, therefore the particularization must be determined in the terms of the others', i.e. the Pañcarātrikas', doctrine; and thus the offering up becomes greatly purifying. And inasmuch as therefore the utilization of nirmālya and nivedya becomes most purifying, it must needs be accepted by those who admit the validity of the Pañcarātra Tantra as well by others who do not.

135. OBJECTION. But how is it possible then that even one who admits the validity of Pāñcarātra should reject nevertheless the nirmālya and nivedya?

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

▼ Buitenen

For in the Tantras the tasting etc. of the nirmālya is prohibited. For instance, it is said in the Sanatkumārīya Samhitā:

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

निवेदितं तु यद् धव्यं
पुष्पं फलम् अथापि वा ।
तन् निर्माल्यम् इति प्रोक्तं

▼ Buitenen

"The offering that is proffered (to the deity), flower or fruit, is called nirmālya; that must be avoided meticulously."

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः:

इति,

▼ Buitenen

Similarly in another passage: "When one has eaten nirmālya, or the foodrests of someone who is not one's guru, one must observe a milk-vow for a month, continuously recite the eight-syllable formula, and drink the pañcagavya,²⁷⁹ in order to be purified."

279: The {{pancagavya | pañcagavya}} is a substance in which the 5 products of the cow are mingled.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः:

तथा इन्द्र-रात्रे ।

न चोपजीवेद् देवेशं

▼ Buitenen

Likewise in the Indrarātra: "One should not live off the Supreme God, nor eat the nirmālya offerings."

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः:

तथा -

न चोपभोगयोग्यानि

इति,

▼ Buitenen

Also:

"And the nirmālya offerings are never fit for consumption."

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः:

तथा सहितान्तरे -

निर्माल्यानि न चाश्रीयान्

इति,

▼ Buitenen

Similarly in another Saṃhitā:

"One should not eat the nirmālya offerings, nor smell them, nor step over them."

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः:

तद् एवम् अनेक-संहिता-समधिगत-निषेधस्य निर्माल्योपभोगस्य

▼ Buitenen

How then can one accept the purity of the utilization of the nirmālya when we thus know from several Saṃhitā that it is prohibited?

REFUTATION. To this he says: The utilization of a proffered substance which has been offered up to the deity is not condemned if it is done ~~within~~ after a period of ten nāḍikās.²⁸⁰

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

▼ Buitenen

Thus in the same Indrarātra:

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुतिः

▼ Buitenen

OBJECTION. But what is said here is not to praise the tasting etc. of the nirmālya, but to prescribe that the substance of the cake pūjā is thrown away after a period of ten nāḍikās.

▼ विश्वास-प्रस्तुति:

सामान्येन निवेदितस्य पुष्पौदनादेः

| दश-नाड्य-अधिकं पूरं स्थापयेत्

इति ।

▼ Buitenen

In the statement:

| "He must let the offering cake stand for over ten nāḍikās,"

the injunction is laid down that when the proffered flowers, cake etc. in general have been taken off as nirmālya, because they have now fulfilled their ritual function, they must be kept by way of accessory pūjā rite for a period of ten nāḍikās.

138. As to the remark²⁹⁹ that from the observance of different sacraments, from conception ceremony to cremation,
it follows that the Bhagavatas are not brahmins, here again ignorance is to blame.
It is not your Honour's fault that the Bhagavatas, who have the Vājasanevasakha in the transmission of their family line, observe the sacraments of conception ceremony etc. according to the manner laid down by the grhyasutras of Katyayana etc.

Those who perform the forty sacraments which are enjoined by the Ekayana scripture while giving up the dharmas of the Veda, from the recitation of the gayatri onward, [[300]] they properly follow the rules laid down by the grhyasutras of their own sakha
and do not abdicate their brahminhood because they fail to follow the rites of a different shakha; since otherwise it would follow that other brahmins too would forfeit their brahminhood because they fail to perform the rites enjoined by other [[121]] people's Sakha.

And the Aspirants who are distinct from those brahmins who are qualified for rites of the aindragneya etc., which are means leading to the enjoyment of rewards like heaven etc.,

as enjoined by the three Vedas, and who themselves are qualified for the rites of the Ekayana, rites which alone are the means of attaining to the Bhagavan, viz. knowledge, cleansing the way to the Lord, preparation of worship and oblation, as enjoined by the Ekayana scripture, are brahmins too.

It follows that the non-observance of certain rites enjoined by different sākhās does not mean that either one forfeits his brahminhood-

But since it is quite obvious that the Bhagavatas, which we are discussing here, are connected with the dharmas of the three Vedas, like the savitri recitation, there is no possible support for the suspicion that they are really vratyas because they would have abandoned these Vedic dharmas.
